FARTS and PEECES

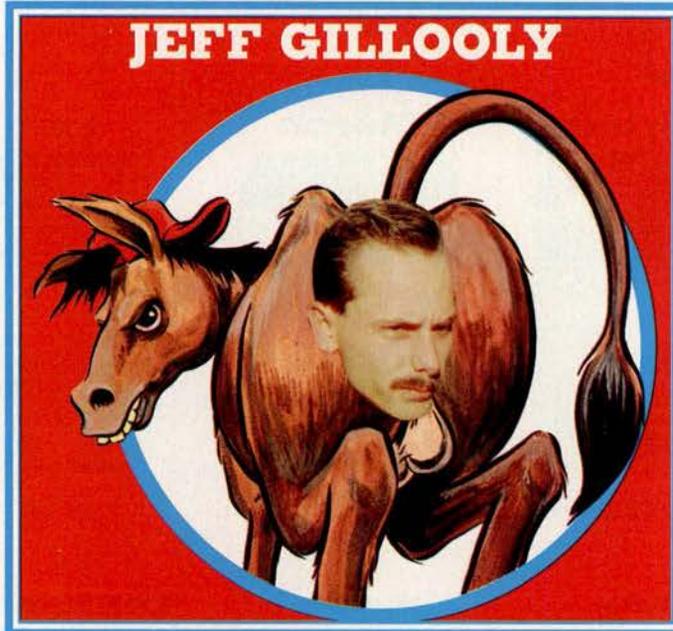

ASSHOLE OF THE MONTH

A rat's ass is HUSTLER Asshole of the Month for June 1994.

Jeff Gillooly, pimp-style showbiz spouse, dumbfuck co-conspirator and whimpering wife-snitcher, is no ordinary 26-year-old rodent. Beady-eyed Jeff has a pointy sniveler's nose that looks like it's just sniffed out a juicy kernel of corn in the shit stew he's made of his life and the lives of so many people around him. As he squirmed in custody, Gillooly's punk whiskers twitched above his scavenger mouth and his gnawing vermin teeth flashed as he smirked like a cheese-eater in a laboratory experiment, just before it has a carcinogen-saturated Q-Tip shoved up its pestiferous shit-hole.

The January 6, 1994, attack on figure skater Nancy Kerrigan as she prepared to compete in the National Championships at Detroit's Cobo Arena, a preemptive strike that drew upon Gillooly's brainpower, was senseless, stupid, brutal, unsportsmanlike, probably unnecessary and a botch. The mission, according to all four future prison residents who have admitted to carrying out the bungled, chickenshit sortie, was to eliminate Kerrigan from the competition so that Gillooly's ex-wife, Tonya Harding, might secure a spot on the United States women's skating team for the 1994 Winter Olympics in Lillehammer, Norway. As envisioned by the schemers' limited minds, Tonya would win a gold medal, sign fat-money endorsement contracts and make every mother's scum happily rich ever after.

Harding did make the trip to Norway, but under a sphincter-cloud emitted by her dipshit-slick old man and his skin-saving tales of her participation in Operation Kerrigan.

"I still love Tonya," Jeff mewled on A Current Affair, after serving up the object of his affections to cops and media in exchange for a two-year sentence. Ronald H. Hoevet, Gillooly's attorney, held a press conference to elaborate on his client's love. Gillooly had implicated his ex because he didn't want her to go to the Olympics after all. "Jeff would have fallen on his sword for Tonya if Tonya had told him the truth," said Hoevet. "He understood that it was impossible for them to ever get back together."

Tonya had turned her back on his love, a romance that included a 3 1/2-year marriage during which friends and family saw Jeff punch Harding, smash through a door to get to her and bang her head against the floor. Harding was twice granted restraining orders against lover Jeff, complaining, "He has assaulted me physically with his open hand and fist....He follows me and has broke into my house and into my truck."

In what seems to sum up Gillooly's philosophy of dealing with female figure skaters, Harding reports that, during an altercation, Jeff told her, "I think we should break your legs and end your career."

Though he never carried out that threat (at least not against his beloved Tonya), Gillooly—who shows a preference for having his dirty work done by proxy—did jeopardize Harding's skating future through statements by his lawyer. "She should be denied a spot on the team," proclaimed Hoevet. "It would be unconscionable if Tonya Harding and Nancy Kerrigan were on the same Olympic team....This country, if we can't figure out a way to give Tonya due process between now and then, is morally bankrupt."

Harding may be guilty, but Gillooly is too dumb to qualify for unconscionable moral bankruptcy. He did, after all, buy the aid of Shawn Eric Eckardt, a 350-pound stool pigeon whose incompetence should have been obvious to Jeff when the two met in the first grade.

The attempt to break Kerrigan's leg handicapped both athletes in their bids for Olympic gold. "I have more faith in my wife than to bump off the competition," swore Gillooly while only a suspect in the malicious buffoonery. Deep down, Jeff must have known Tonya would pay off one way or another. A Current Affair broadcast a home video of Harding flashing her tits. The New York Post reported that Gillooly had supplied the tape, at an undisclosed price.

Considering the caseload on his underdeveloped conscience, Gillooly may never find time to lose sleep over being designated HUSTLER Asshole of the Month, but for the next two years he'll be lying awake, regretting that God placed a vulnerable, penetration-prone orifice in the middle of his skank ass.

Farts in the Wind

Sardar Assef Ahmed Ali: Foreign minister of Pakistan Sardar Assef Ahmed Ali likes to talk big, threatening India with nuclear war. While overpopulation in both Pakistan and India has long been out of control and in need of drastic curtailment, throwing the world into World War III is an irresponsible, sphincter-brained solution, worthy of gentleman Assef Ahmed Ali, Asshole. Catharine MacKinnon: In her pro-censorship book Only Words, feminist Catharine MacKinnon comes off as the driest pussy that ever lived. "Protecting pornography," intones MacKinnon, "means protecting sexual abuse as speech." MacKinnon believes that all male-targeted erotica, including weak-shit Playboy, is a form of rape because its "women are objectified and presented dehumanized as sexual objects or things for use." But in Playboy, the women don't have pussies, which is perhaps what allows MacKinnon to identify so deeply with them. She may be cunt-dead, but MacKinnon's Asshole is working overtime.

Thanks, guys, for making my year so special. Now, give one of my girlfriends a hand.

Shoot to Thrill

As a way of stemming the glut of guns in the streets, many cities now offer programs where weapon owners can exchange their firearms for food, toy certificates or sports and concert tickets. As if anyone who'd give up his gun for an Elton John pass was a grave threat in the first place. Fuck that. HUSTLER wants to reward those who protect themselves by giving them pussy. That's right, gunslingers. Send us a note saying, "Vive le Second Amendment!" along with a check for $6.50,* and we'll send you a limited-edition HUSTLER 1994 calendar. Shoot straight and never miss a firing-range appointment again!

Even if you own no weapons, you can still get a HUSTLER '94 calendar. Send a check for $6.50,* made payable to HG Publications, to HUSTLER Calendar Offer, 9171 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 300, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

*Price includes shipping & handling. California residents add 8.25% sales tax; $7.04 total.

The Winter Olympics are now a memory, but the deluge of dreary athletic endorsements continues. While Tonya Harding seems a natural to plug Club Soda, Club Med or the Club antitheft device, here's an ad we'd like to see for her rival.

Even the most hardened criminal will shrivel with fear and repugnance at the repetition of Kerrigan's insistent wail. The whiny Kerrigan "Why Me" Car Alarm—don't park at a Detroit skating rink without it.

AD PARODY. NOT TO BE TAKEN SERIOUSLY. KERRIGAN'S HEAD WAS IN NO WAY INJURED IN THIS COMPUTERIZED CONCOCTION.

Do It Yourself

bits & pieces

While the HUSTLER peons were designing this issue's Bits & Pieces section, Mother Nature spread her hairy cunt and quiffed the 6.6 earthquake that ripped Los Angeles last January. Our offices were trashed, and many of our recurrent themes—a woman striking a canine pose, a pile of poop and, of course, Shannen Doherty—were jumbled in the wreckage. Now we need help putting this page back together. Cut out these visuals and cleverly paste them into the shot below. Title and mail your finished work of art to: Do It Yourself Bits & Pieces c/o HUSTLER Magazine, 9171 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 300, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. The winner will receive a three-issue mini-subscription to HUSTLER and have his collage featured in an upcoming issue of America's most interactive magazine. Good luck.

Ministry Man

I am just writing to say HUSTLER did a great job on the consumer's guide to men's magazines by Ministry's Al Jourgensen (An Unbiased Consumer's Guide to Men's Magazines, March '94). No other magazine meets HUSTLER's humor, pictorials and adult-movie reviews. But the part I liked most was seeing Ministry's front man, Al Jourgensen. Ministry's one of my favorite bands. I never thought I would see Jourgensen in HUSTLER! Great job, guys. —S. V. Pecatonica, Illinois

Bow Wow

Hi! I'm one of HUSTLER's female readers. I have a comment and a complaint. In regards to HUSTLER Humor, I love it. Especially Graffiti. The stuff written on them john walls is hellerious. The Family Bols ranks up there too! My complaint isn't about HUSTLER but about men. Hell, I don't know what's wrong with them. Check this out. I'm 21, 36-29-38, 5-9 and 140 pounds. And I couldn't get a date for the life of me. Then, in the brief second that I do, the lucky jerk turns out to be a total asshole. I'm young, beautiful and got a great body. What's the deal? —L. M. Crowley, Texas

The problem, L. M., is that you haven't advertised your charms. HUSTLER's Beaver Hunt invites you to show the men of America the right stuff the right way. Turn to page 117 for entry details!

Waste of Paste

My wife and I are interested in having pictures of our faces put on models' naked bodies having sex. We like the "Million-Dollar Muff Payoff" in HUSTLER's March 1994 issue ("Million-Dollar Muff Payoff," Bits & Pieces, March '94), but we don't want the pictures of our faces pasted on the pics like that. We want them to look more realistic. Does HUSTLER do this for people who want it done? My wife is very attractive and has full, luscious lips. I'm trying to talk her into letting me take pictures of her for HUSTLER's Beaver Hunt in order to qualify for Beaver Hunt's 1994 $5,000 Grand Prize. She's thinking about it. Are there any magazines that have a segment where they would take pictures of her face and put it on another woman's body and put it in their magazine? —S. B. Eagletown, Oklahoma

If your wife is in such dire need of having her face attached to another woman's body, S. B., Beaver Hunt respectfully suggests she save the postage!

Shillin' for Schalin

I'm a big fan of HUSTLER and Larry Flynt. It's been my dream for a long time to work for HUSTLER Magazine. Even if this never comes true, sending in jokes still makes me feel part of the team.

One of my favorite things to do is come up with Bits & Pieces ideas. I sent a few ideas to Mr. Scott Schalin, who I think does a wonderful job with Bits & Pieces. One of the ideas I sent to HUSTLER concerned a gag ad for the Dickoderm patch. Right after I sent my idea, I saw Dickoderm in the very next issue of Bits & Pieces ("Portrait of a Fucker," Bits & Pieces, June '93). This made me very happy. My idea for Dickoderm wasn't used, because the HUSTLER staff thought of Dickoderm long before I sent my idea, but this proves that I'm on the right track for thinking of Bits & Pieces jokes. I received a nice letter from Mr. Schalin saying that he liked my Bits & Pieces ideas and that they were funny, but he was a bit frightened about the fact that I enjoy Bits & Pieces so much. I'm not a violent person. I just love laughter, and Bits & Pieces gets me on the floor rolling. —J. B. Cincinnati, Ohio

Shot Report

Please consider doing a story about the National Rifle Association. If mandated gun control prohibits the general public from owning and operating guns—compromising the intention of the Second Amendment of the Constitution of the United States—most likely the First Amendment will suffer as well.

God bless America. —A. N.
Oak Park, Illinois

Refer to HUSTLER's January 1994 issue, A. N., for Crossfire: Antigun Fanatics Blast the Second Amendment, a cautionary report on the gun-control controversy.

Marking Matti

I may just become a 12-issue subscriber to HUSTLER Magazine. The full nudity on the public bus in HUSTLER's March 1994 issue sold me (Sasha and Sal: Bus-jackers, March '94). What I look for in adult magazines are photos of luscious, naked people outdoors and in public places. Congratulations to photographer Matti Klatt and models Sasha and Sal for doing it right! I'd like to see Sasha and Sal do a layout called Subway Jackers. How about doing a takeoff on HUSTLER's Tiffany, Rebecca, Summer, Lacy, Crystal, Sierra and Alicia: Slam Bam Ma'ams (Tiffany, Rebecca, Summer, Lacy, Crystal, Sierra and Alicia: Slam Bam Ma'ams, Holiday Issue '93) called Slam-Bam Block Party? If HUSTLER could pull it off, I'd be a subscriber till doomsday. Anybody who doesn't like public nudity can get the fuck out of HUSTLER! Keep up the great work!

No Nudes Bad News

Please, HUSTLER; perhaps you can tell me what is wrong with nude dancing?

In my great state of Tennessee, lawmakers are in the process of pushing an anti-nudity bill down our throats.

The proposed legislation aims to close down nude-dancing clubs or at least to make the dancers wear G-strings and pasties.

I don't understand what is so threatening about these clubs. I've seen more violence in shopping malls.

Nobody goes into a nude-dancing establishment looking for trouble—simply to enjoy the beauty of the dancers and the atmosphere of the club. —M. D. L.

Sneedville, Tennessee

What's wrong with nude dancing? Dancers never get close enough to touch, for one thing. Why not organize a petition with clubgoers who share your views, M. D. L.? Lawmakers customarily side with the loudest constituents.

Dark Man

I'm an avid reader and fan of HUSTLER. I've been buying HUSTLER for about ten years now. I only have one request as to how to make HUSTLER even better than it is now.

Please keep the niggers out. If I wanted to see big, black, ugly, sour, nigger pussy, I'd buy Players.

Other than that, HUSTLER rules! —T. D.
Jacksonville, Florida

It must have been Players you were looking at when you saw big, black, ugly, nigger pussy, T. D.

We at HUSTLER only photograph tight, mahogany, bitchin', sweet, black pussy!

Inside Out

HUSTLER is a gas. The guys here drool all over the pages and, when I get to see the mag, the pages are all stuck together. One thing that bothers me about current events on the outside is that it seems society is empowering children to the point where adults will pay for it.

Soon enough maybe kids will have the power to put their parents or any adult in prison just on their say-so. I've heard people ask, "Why would a child lie about crimes committed by adults?" I reply, "Why would a child steal or shoot a gun or smoke a cigarette?"

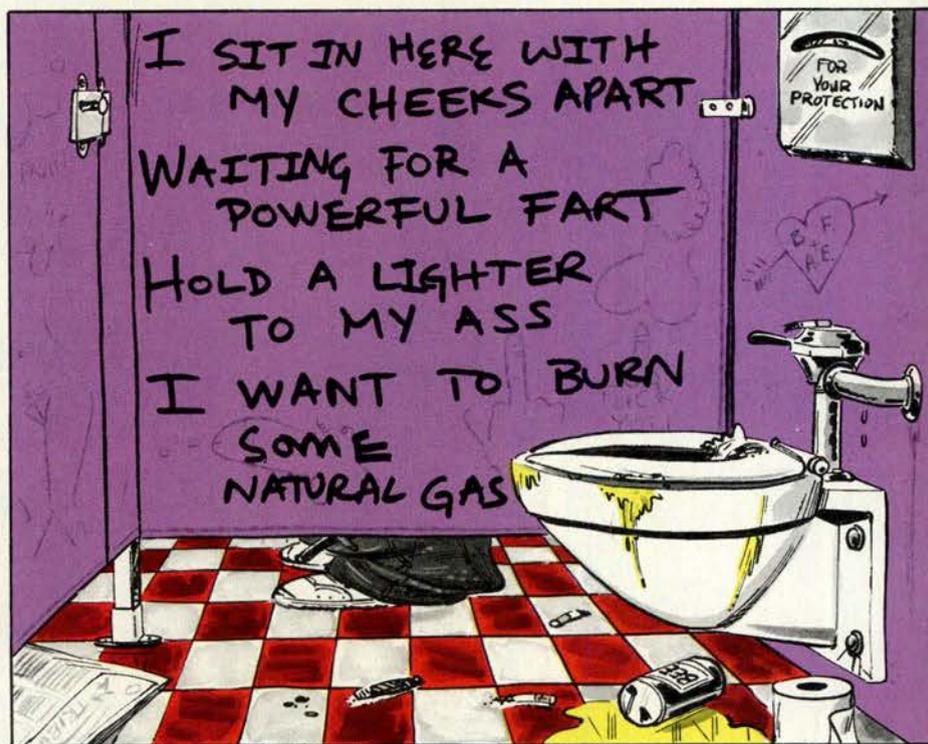

I hope one day to write my autobiography, and in it will be how bad prison life really is! Here's a cartoon for HUSTLER: A few inmates are seated around a table. One says, "Gilligan or Mary Ann?" The other inmates look at each other and say, "Gilligan." You know, like that Budweiser commercial on TV!

'Zine It All:

HUSTLER'S

Guide to the Self-Publishing Revolution

by Mike McPadden

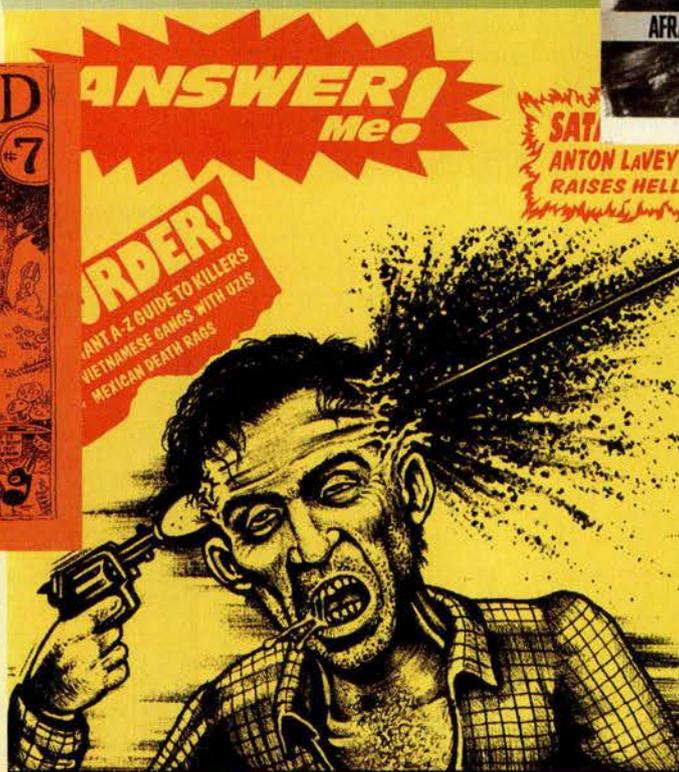

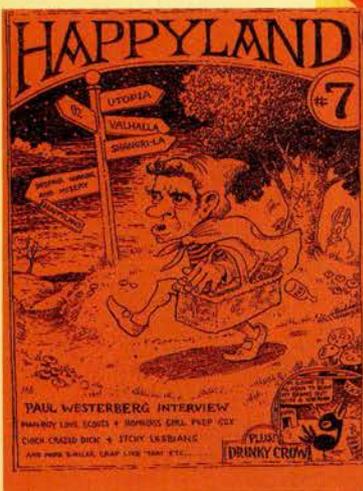

HUSTLER aside, what constitutes good reading these days?

Formulaic mainstream porn puts most readers to sleep before they unzip, culture journals aimed at the elusive Generation X offer little more than limp-wristed fashion advice, and the big-league music press is as vital as the dead rock stars it routinely reports on.

The newsstand is no marketplace for anything unusual. The adventurous must travel underground for literary kicks, to the world of 'zines—self-produced, small-scale publications—and the visionary crackpots who put them out. While 'zines mimic the traditional magazine format (hence the abbreviated term 'zine), a sense of immediacy and passion separates them from their professional counterparts. Some lone nut with a typewriter doesn't have to worry about circulation or keeping advertisers happy.

Last spring, USA Today estimated the total number of 'zines being published domestically at 50,000.

Although the form extends back to hippie-circulated mimeographs of the 1960s, the punk movement of the late '70s gave shape to its modern incarnation. Bands such as the Ramones indicated that any mook could achieve rock stardom simply by trying. Writerly punks entered the world of publishing with three words in mind: Do it yourself.

No punk show was complete without scads of photocopied newsletters. Among the remembered 'zines of this early era are Gerard Cosloy's Conflict, a venomous record review guide, and Rick Sullivan's Gore Gazette, a fortnightly dedicated to reviewing exploitation films and detailing its editor's alarming misadventures. These pioneering publications set the tone for future editors and established the direct-marketing-by-mail through which most 'zines are circulated.

THE FAMILY MUST BE ELIMINATED * I HATE WOMEN * I HATE MEN * THE UNDERGROUND IS A LIE

"Pro-'zines" thrived as well. Slash in Los Angeles and Punk in New York mixed the attitude of amateur rags with commercial production values and enjoyed inspirational, if short-lived, runs. The pro-'zine formula is currently more abundant than ever (highly visible examples: Sin, Hypno, the amazing skateboard periodical Big Brother).

Fueled by the advent of desktop-publishing software, there are now more publications addressing more topics than at any time in the past. The most common 'zine focus has always been rock music (violent movies rank second), but there is an amateur digest devoted to every conceivable interest.

Spike Vrusho's Murtaugh explores the relationship between baseball fandom and mental illness;

Bust is a satirical quarterly written by and for hormonally charged young women; Bea & Eff takes an uproarious look at the animation industry; and Sticky Carpet Digest excruciatingly describes the sad life of Star Trek nerds, starting with its own geekoid staff.

The two most famous 'zines couldn't be more different. Teenage Gang Debs is more or less a scrapbook dedicated to 1970s television. Answer Me! is page after page of soul-searing, apocalyptic broadsides discharged by terrifying husband-and-wife team Jim and Debbie Goad, the last issue of which sold 10,000 copies.

Taking a cue from Screw magazine in the late '60s and HUSTLER in the early

'80s, a new wave of 'zines function as anger-fueled, sex-death-and-ego diatribes with identities inseparable from those of their editors. Some slick-looking variations on this dynamic are Future Sex, Blue Blood and Propaganda, all of which focus on sex in relation to technology and/or vampirism. More intriguing, though, are the guerrilla-style rags cranked out by latter-day Larry Flynts determined to foist their message on the public by any means necessary. Among the most notable and notorious:

BLUE PERSUASION—Blue Persuasion mixes a fan's view of hard-core porn with an appreciation for pop culture and an engrossing, sex-heavy autobiographical element. Editor Aaron Lee interviews seminal raunch rapper Rudy Ray Moore in the current issue, then discloses all the embarrassing details of his first drug experience. Entertainment at its finest.

EVERYTHING I TOUCH TURNS TO SHIT AND GARBAGE—Queen Itchie, publisher of Everything I Touch... writes about her breasts a lot, and judging from the topless photographs of herself that adorn the 'zine, she's got a lot to write about. She bares some pretty big brains too. Literature for the thinking tit man.

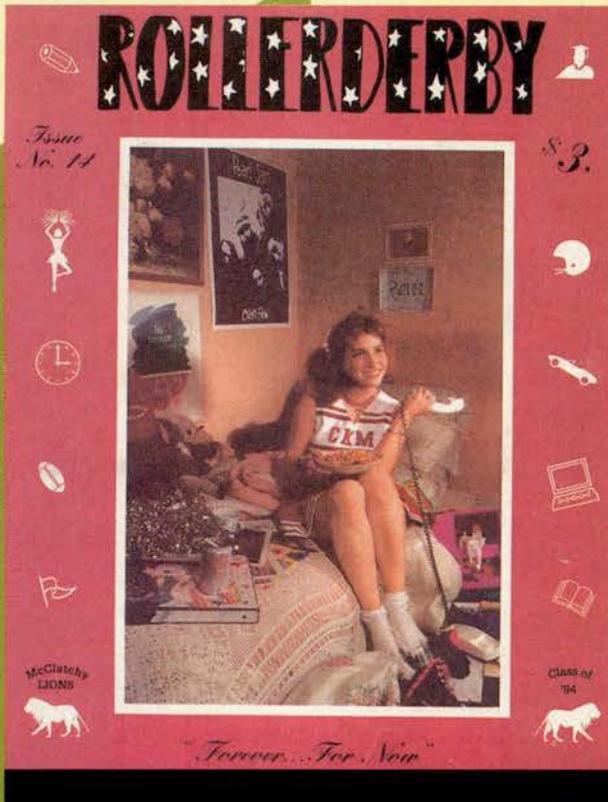

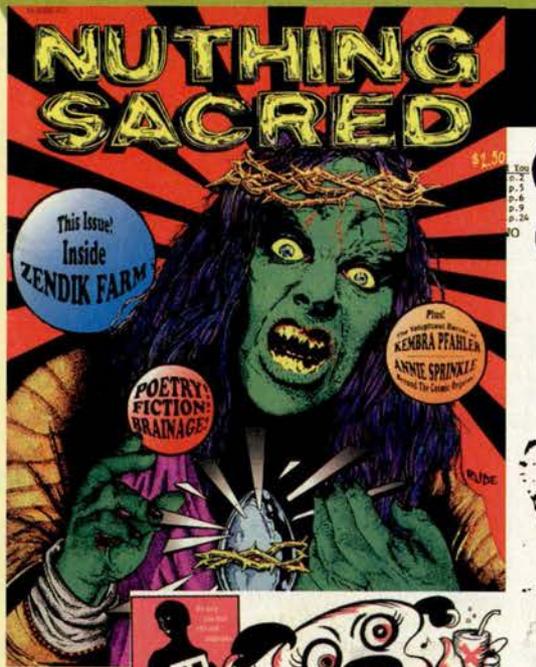

GRINDHOUSE—J. Adler has been haunting New York's 42nd Street and grinding out his defiantly low-tech scream sheet for years. For the most part, Grindhouse reviews movies, but Adler's tangential screeds about street scum and his personal life are more than worth the price of admission (e.g., Adler witnesses a guy whacking off in a trash-pit theater: "Homey in the front row started blowing so many loads all over the screen, I had to get the bitch in the booth to wipe that shit off!").

HAPPYLAND—Selwyn Harris may be the ultimate asshole: an egomaniac with an inferiority complex. Happyland recounts this asshole's scuz-strewn, alcohol-powered adventures with sufficient artistic flourish to have landed him the odd freelance writing gig at HUSTLER. Make no mistake: Happyland may seem like a nice place to visit, but it takes a real asshole to live there.

NUTHING SACRED—This eye-catching 'zine seems to be nothing special at first (too many Q & A's with performers who have done too many Q & A's elsewhere), but the hard-edged journalism undertaken by editor Jay Sosnicki makes it unique. The current Nothing Sacred blows the lid off radical hippie foundation Zendik Farm, as well as Sosnicki's sexual preferences.

PANTY LINE FEVER—After four issues of hackneyed New York City bohemian rehash, Panty Line Fever has become an indispensable sleaze tract. The current edition features a long, hard talk with X-hedgehog Ron Jeremy, great Richard Kern photographs of a nipple-ringed nubile and a welcome reduction of the art-fart stench that PLF blew in the past.

ROLLERDERBY—Lisa Carver and company offer a berserk and brilliant literary offshoot of their Suckdog music project and may be producing the finest of all 'zines in the process. At once confessional and confrontational, Rollerderby is always possessed of great wit, astonishing artwork and volcanic sexuality. Rollerderby frequently showcases nude female flesh to boot.

The message of the 'zine phenomenon is not just that the public has the opportunity to read more, but that it has the opportunity to write more. Anyone can publish anything these days: The technology is accessible, and the audience is available.

For information on how to order the 'zines listed above, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mike McPadden c/o LFP, 9171 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 300, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

azine by the guys across the hall in my college dorm. I like HUSTLER's coarse style and rough-edged humor. I want to know how a girl goes about getting in HUSTLER. I think I would like to pose for HUSTLER, but I don't know how to go about it, and I'm scared that people who know me or my parents would see it and recognize me.

I'm six feet tall, hazel eyes, with reddish-brown hair down to my bra strap, 38D cup, and I have a good athletic build. I don't know what my measurements are. Now that I think of it, I would love to see a pinup of me in the guys' room—they would just come everywhere!

Has HUSTLER ever considered scouting colleges—like Carbondale? —Monique Carbondale, Illinois

Getting into HUSTLER's Beaver Hunt is easy, Monique—just aim the camera, smile and flash! As for being recognized, a different hairstyle and some makeup might bring out a whole new side of you!

Readers' Right

HUSTLER needs more bizarre photo fantasies. For instance, how about an innocent, young, female motorist being arrested and strip-searched by jailhouse matrons or a dentist taking advantage of a groggy, young, female patient? The entertainment value of seeing snooty, prudish women being degraded and humiliated cannot be overestimated.

—J. T. Lexington, Kentucky

HUSTLER has always been a magazine with balls. But does HUSTLER have balls enough to do a raunchy Easter pictorial that features a couple of hot, horny nuns doing each other, complete with rosary beads and a shiny, nine-inch crucifix?

—M. C. South Suburban, Illinois

Sole Asylum

No wonder the economy's getting better—I've helped by buying three copies of the February 1994 issue of HUSTLER!

The photo spread of Sharen is wearing me right out (Sharen: Swimming Hole, February '94).

I have a foot fetish, and I have it bad. In my opinion, the picture of Sharen on her knees reaching back spreading her twat and showing the bottoms of her feet should be framed and hung in a museum. I would sell my soul to the devil for the privilege of kissing, licking and sucking on those beautiful feet.

And we won't even mention what I would cut off for the opportunity to sniff on them when they were really stinky!

HUSTLER, how about a centerfold of just a woman's beautiful, bare feet, complete with a scratch 'n' sniff of her toe jam?

Am I sick, or just not afraid to admit what really turns me on?

—J. K. Dallas, Texas

You definitely have a problem, J. K. Three copies of HUSTLER's February 1994 issue aren't nearly enough. Try three dozen.

Do you have a comment or complaint? We want to hear it. Send your letters (typed or neatly handwritten) to HUSTLER Feed-back, 9171 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 300, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. Include a phone number if you want your letter considered for publication.

EDITED BY MIKE MCPADDEN

MAKE MY WIFE PLEASE

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Wesley Emerson; starring Kelly O'Dell, Nicole London, Ariel Daye, Chris Collins, Joey Silvera, Tom Byron, Marc Wallace and E. Z. Ryder. Videocassette: VCA.

Kelly O'Dell's prime pruriency overcomes any movie's mediocrity as long as she's the star. Her ability to lock her baby blues into a man's eyes while sucking his cock is an inherent skill that no Strasberg Method-acting prick could ever teach. O'Dell has also been blessed with a body that's tighter than a baby's asshole. After she delivers a gargantuan blowjob to Joey Silvera, he returns the favor by skating his tongue delicately through her slick pussy trough while melting an ice cube into her burning clit. O'Dell soon bounces on Silvera's dick like a jack-in-the-box popping from a tin, before swallowing his silvery semen like a half-dozen fresh oysters at once. The plot—yuppie couples struggling with fidelity—sucks about as hard as Nicole London, who should win this year's Best Use of Saliva award for her messy hosejob on Marc Wallace. Later, Chris Collins, a pecker-pleasing surprise in the old Raven mold, opens her well-crinkled asshole for Silvera's tongue and her muscular cunt for the old man's crowbar. The film ends on a helium-high lesbian note as O'Dell and London smash faces into snatch and do the clitty bump-and-grind atop a glass dinner table. A feast for the eyes and prick.

—Seth Roberts

Wife: Lezzy London dines on O'Dell.

Make My Wife: flying furniture fuck.

L RIN-SSA H I-L

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by Rex Borsky; starring Alicia Rio, Dominique Simone, Nina Suave, Pamela Dee, Anisia, Sean Michaels, Rex Huston, Joey Silvera, Tom Byron and T. T. Boy. Videocassette: Rosebud.

Huston and Rio: lapping at La Princessa.

There's no proof that director Rex Borsky took his surname from his directing style, but boring is the right word to describe this steamy hunk of colon blow. Borsky's sex scenes unfold with the passion of an embalmer preparing a corpse for burial. Where a corpse would at least be stiff, viewers will limp through these four unconnected acts beginning with T. T. Boy and Sean Michaels sharing the southern exposures of pudgy Pamela Dee. While the sight of Michaels squeezing dick paste onto the teeth of Dee might sound appealing, the length of time to get there seems endless. In the video's only arresting moment, Alicia Rio strips off a pair of slut shorts, exposing her well-cooked flaps of brisket, which Rex Huston kindly covers with his tongue juice. The pussy-sucking is hot; the anal sex is not—shadows and limbs obscure most of the action. Such is not the case with nasty Nina Suave's scene as Tom Byron's shaved gonads flop against her greasy gash for minute after agonizing minute. Strokers too dizzy to reach the remote will then suffer through an uninspired four-way wherein aging Joey Silvera tries and fails to refrain from hyperventilating while fucking both Rio and Oriental fortune cookie Anisia. Confucius say, Never let Silvera attempt two girls at once, and send Borsky back to film school. —S. R.

Crack and a smile: American Blonde.

AMERICAN BLONDE

Half Erect. Directed by Paul Thomas; starring Janine, Kaitlyn Ashley, Rasha, Misty Rain, Colt Steele, Tony Tedeschi, Veronica Lake and Alex Sanders. Videocassette: Vivid. Shot on Film.

American Blonde is perhaps the most beautiful-looking half-erect fuck flick in porn history. The cinematography is lush and worthy of the term cinematography, the camera lingers and zooms where the aesthetically minded perv's eye would linger and zoom, and the settings seem upscale and true. The true beauty of American Blonde, however, is Kaitlyn Ashley. Ashley is a blonde of the ilk that turns up on TV shows like Melrose Place, only prettier. Kaitlyn's big, dreamy, little-girl sky-blue eyes sparkle under the flutter of downy lashes as her articulate tongue slips through her full, sensualist's lips to slide along a God-blessed prick. If paradise is a blowjob, nirvana is in Kaitlyn Ashley's mouth. Athletic and erotic, Ashley's elegantly muscled thighs flex as she squats to lower draping cunt curtains upon the thick, straining rod of Tony Tedeschi in a classy, scrotum-tightening fuck. That scene alone almost compensates for the presence of dick-hating Janine, a wholly different and inferior breed of flaxen Yank who fouls an otherwise lovely American Blonde. —Christian Shapiro

Married: grounds for divorce.

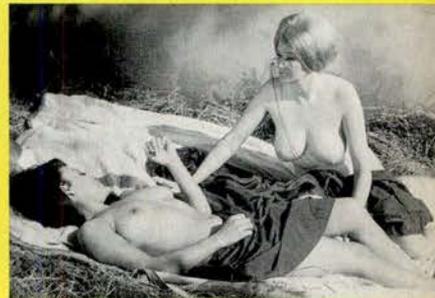

SO I MARRIED A LESBIAN...

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by Robert McCallum; starring Danyel Cheeks, Debi Diamond, Nina Suave, Kim Chambers, Sydney Dance, T. T. Boy, Cal Jammer, David Hardman, Jonathan Morgan and Michael J. Cox. Videocassette: Western Visuals.

Some outlandish departures from reality are harder to believe than others, and the premise of So I Married a Lesbian... is among the most difficult to swallow. The viewer is asked to accept that a human male of reasonably functional intelligence has married renowned tyro fuck Danyel Cheeks without having had sex with her first. Beyond that, the gullible audience member must fall for a credibility-straining plot twist in which Cheeks is revealed to be a dyke afraid of penises who will not fuck her new husband even now that they've been wed. Married's sets, dialogue, character chemistry and actors' physical appeal are all as dubious as its fundamental construct. Lesbian does come through with the obligatory double penetration and a few begrudged cum-shots on female faces, but the best thing about So I Married is that divorce exists. —C. S.

Something Wild

Sex films of the 1960s serve as a secret history of American sin; Mike Vraney of Something Weird Video is the genre's foremost historian. Specializing in titles such as The Girl From S.I.N., Keyholes Are for Peeping, Trader Hornee and The Erotic Adventures of Zorro, Vraney's mail-order company offers videotaped vestiges of a bygone era where tease was the height of sleaze and plain tits-and-ass was the simplest way to the repressed public's cash. To obtain further information on these tapes, which rate high as both nostalgia and hard-on fodder, write Something Weird Video, Department F.U.N., Box 33664, Seattle, WA 98133.

BLACK BUTTMAN

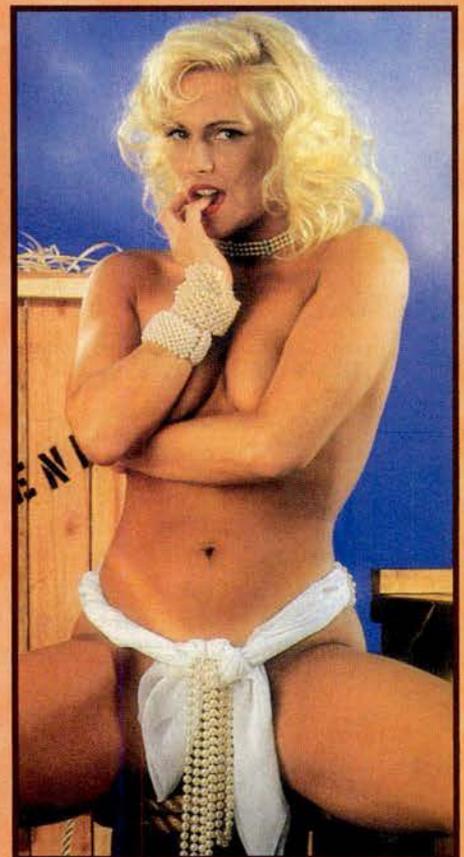

Half Erect. Directed by Sean Michaels; starring Domanique Simone, Lana Sands, Heather Lee, Julian St. Jox, Kitty Yung, Genevive Laffex, Sean Michaels and Venus. Videocassette: Coast to Coast Video.

Although Louis Farrakhan and his Nation of Islam might protest to the contrary, black chicks' butts are one of the greatest sources of African-American pride, right up there with Jackie Robinson and James Brown. Black Buttmán focuses on some fine asses of the dusky variety, particularly during its black-and-white, full-moon opening montage of flexing, swaying, dipping, dimpled ethnic glutes. The full-color action sequences (five in all, though one is a half-Asian girl/girl bout of sparring dildos) typically begin with a smooth-talking player razzmatazzing a soul sister into showing her shitter, and end with a cunt-slickened trouser eel spewing dollops of creamy white on a brown babe's crapper cushions or pillow lips. There's no resisting the enticement as these shadowy foxes begin to strip; in every case, a brother jumps in before the lady's down to nothing but skin. Given the chance, who among us would not do the same as these overeager dudes? Everybody can be a Black Buttmán, at least for the duration of this tape. —C. S.

PRECIOUS CARGO

Half Erect. Directed by Mr. Gallo; starring Debi Diamond, Marilyn Blake, Angel Bust, Natasha, Sloane, Tony Martino and Scott C. Videocassette: Visual Images.

Precious Cargo is a rare thing for a porn video: It's supposedly inspired by a book! Slutaholic Debi Diamond writhes nude in the bedroom of her suburban tract home, leafing through an erotic tome. With every page she turns, she fantasizes a fuck and, there it is, her sex imaginings come to life on the screen. A sneer-lipped blonde wraps her snarl around Tony Martino's prick, prompting him to stick her and come on her belly. A ratty-haired brunet rocker chick wraps a string of pearls around nips and clit while engaged in full-thighed leg lock with the sneer-lipped blonde. Cursory cock licking coaxes a load onto the neck of a snatch with a pinstriped pubic patch, European blonde Natasha has her bunghole fingered, tongued and pronged in a scene that must have come from a better tape, and Diamond tosses off a trademark ballistic bone to end the fantasy. Cargo is only semiprecious. —C. S.

Debi Diamond: Precious gem.

Wicked Woman: sandwich of sin.

Chelsea: Which side tastes best?

BREASTMAN GOES TO BREASTLAND

Half Erect. Directed by Mitchell Spinelli; starring Jessica Fox, Alexis DeVill, Jonathan Morgan, Tara Gold, LeAnna Foxxx, Kat Karlson, Lynn LeMay, Mark David, Cal Jammer, Cody O'Connor, Wendy Whoppers and Tony Tedeschi. Videocassette: EVN.

Tony Tedeschi as Breastman and Jonathan Morgan as his tit-obsessed sidekick succumb to mammary-induced imbecility. Not only do the two leads drool, slaver and rant like residents of the Dolville Home for the Cranially Impaired, but they've gotten lost on their way to Breastland and ended up in Silicone Valley. The hooters of Breastland, without any memorable exception, retain the same perpendicular angularity from their supporting body whether their plastic-packed girl is kneeling, flat on her back or standing on her head. Still, these stand-up sacks are anointed with jizz, mauled by mouth, grappled and groped and lubriciously bisected by a slicing schween. Butts shimmy, bellies quiver, and heads bounce from power toolings, but the mounds of boobs—most of which receive unneeded elevation from push-up bras—remain undisturbed. Every indiscriminate orb-ogler will want to take a trip to Breastland, but only once.

—C. S.

WICKED WOMAN

Half Erect. Directed by Mitchell Spinelli; starring Lacey Rose, Jonathan Morgan, Chaz Vincent, Dizzy Blonde, Bunny Bleu and Tom Byron. Videocassette: Hollywood Video Productions.

In what amounts to an attempt at stylishness in the porn idiom, director Mitchell Spinelli has the fuckers in his cast begin each sex scene with their clothes on. The players kiss and grope, pulling garments away to reveal primary sexual characteristics. Panties and G-strings slide to the side so that labes may be licked; fingers and tongues fumble into undershorts and pull out penises filled with the throbbing blood of arousal. This naturalistic portrayal of coupling is a refreshing and fetching way to showcase screwing and results in two jizz loads dumped on straining butt buns, a lot of decently indecent wad slops on gaping slut mouths and a relatively active femme-to-femme crotch chomping. The storyline, however, is paramount and mundane, and the women, though nasty, are a few sins short of being truly Wicked.

—C. S.

THE OTHER SIDE OF CHELSEA

Half Erect. Directed by Arthur Ben; starring Chelsea Lynx, Nikki Sinn, Brittany O'Connell, Krysti Lynn, Joey Silvera, Jake Williams, Kyle Stone and Shawn Ricks. Videocassette: X-Citement Video.

Whichever side Oriental cum bunny Chelsea Lynx is showing in The Other Side of Chelsea, it's a good side. Chelsea has the high-sheen, straight, black hair common to her race; her almond eyes brim with playful, seductive mystery. Chelsea's cheekbones, nose and mouth are fine, feminine and feline; her limbs are limber and sleek. Perhaps best of all are her compact, buttery-but-firm tits and ass, and a snatch that's clean and trim and fresh and pretty. In fact, Other Side is charmed with the presence of two pussies that look something close to virginal—or at least pubescent. Brittany O'Connell's diamond-tuck quim rivals Chelsea's Asian slice for untrammelled beauty; plus, little Brittany takes a drooling dick into her mouth directly after it has been shoved in her shitter. Chelsea herself whips her cunt through a pair of fucks, one ending with a glorious coating of testicle goop in her butt. Aside from Brittany and Chelsea, The Other Side has no other side worth mentioning.

—C. S.

Breastland: the scenic route.

DESIGNER BODIES

Half Erect. Directed by Derrick Lane; starring Nikki Dial, Stephanie DuValle, Heather Lee, Nikki Sinn, Dick Nasty, Shawn Ricks, Adam Vaughn and Gerry Pike. Videocassette: Vivid. If Calvin Klein and God had conspired to design the perfect body, Nikki Dial might well have resulted. With a face out of Vogue and the most inviting pussy in the porn world, Dial is adult film's most superb starlet. Even in inferior porn tapes such as Designer Bodies, what comes out of Dial's mouth is nothing compared to what goes into it. Dial doesn't simply suck Gerry Pike's prick; she lip-cuddles the crankshaft with the skill of a gem cutter, slicing his penile opening with her forked tongue and washing her face with the wet wang as if it were a cleansing beauty bar. When Pike fucks her from behind, Dial's arresting breasts slap against her chest like a power swimmer's hands digging for the finish line. In the finale of this flick—which bears a plot lamely recounting one man's tattoo obsessions—Dial and Stephanie DuValle (a ringer for the petite blonde from Beverly Hills 90210, DuValle has a snatch that resembles unchewed bubblegum), share a pair of pricks in a standard scene made superior by the girls' bewitching beauty. Otherwise, biker chick Nikki Sinn, whose haggard bod appears to have spent more time under a bike than on one, appears in too many of the other scenes, chewing Heather Lee's colossal cunt in one and taking prick in her pooper during another. Half of these four tattooed love girls don't make lasting impressions, but Dial will stick with a viewer like unwashed underwear.

Bodies: gland design.

SCUM IN THE SUN

Las Vegas long ago gave up its gangster chic for some trailer-trash version of what lies beyond the pearly gates. In a town that so blatantly wears its soul on its face, it would seem things could hardly get any weirder. All bets are off, however, when the annual Consumer Electronics Show blows into town for the first week of each January.

For this year's CES, the usual plethora of porn-industry personas piled into the Sahara Hotel, mostly to be overwhelmed by the trend of the moment: interactive CD-ROM smut. Legions of nearsighted guys with pocket protectors were in ecstasy. Similarly ecstatic was the staff of HUSTLER EROTIC VIDEO GUIDE, whose debauchery-in-the-desert will be detailed in the June edition of HEVG. Watch for it.

BUTTSLAMMERS 4: DOWN AND DIRTY

Half Erect. Directed by Bruce Seven; starring Felecia, Bianca, Arianna, Debi Diamond, Francesca Le, Tammi Ann, Tiffany Million, Nikki Shane, Danyel Cheeks and Misty Rain. Videocassette: Seven Productions.

Even on an off day, Bruce Seven farts out better sex flicks than most of his peers. Occasionally, though, he succumbs to his own excesses. Anyone familiar with the all-girl Buttslammers series will recognize familiar Seven obsessions, from oil squirting into yawning assholes to latex-sheathed fingers probing butts and boxes. Where the effusive, vag-secreting nature of these tapes often propels viewers into fist-slamming glee, Part 4 smacks of compilation crappiness. Scenes often begin and end in the middle of the action, as when the camera cuts away just as Arianna's vibrating butt plug begins to warm up. Debi Diamond and Bianca dive quickly into a labored pussy nosh that has them wheezing like battered seals at the slightest touch of tit or clit. A six-way feeding frenzy featuring most of the cast fucking each other holy with fingers, feet and phallic knickknacks is actually four separate scenes spliced together to appear as one woozy hangover of an orgy. Only the last scene shows something truly different, with Danyel Cheeks acting as the creamy center in a three-girl Oreo cookie also featuring Felecia and munchable Misty Rain mashed on either side. Cheeks is then splattered with oil and plugged with an ice dildo before the trailer-park angel turns the labia tables and straps on for an anal penetration of her two poon peers. Those who make it far enough to witness the final wackiness will indeed agree: More is less.

still. Her nipples rose and poked into me. She said nothing, but as I felt her fear, I realized how much I loved her and how much I never wanted to let her go.

Ka-boom! The first wave of aftershocks belted the room. A bookshelf next to the bed swayed like a hula dancer; a few books slammed to the floor. Kelly pressed her mouth into mine. Her tongue swirled against my own, and blood pumped furiously from my heart, erecting my cock with instant life. No words were spoken, but my hands wrapped around her big, fleshy boobs. I turned around and dove head-first under the covers. I sniffed my way to her cunt and proceeded to chew on her already-throbbing clit. Her pussy

A pretty Big One had just hit. The apartment my girlfriend and I had worked so hard to maintain had been neatly destroyed in ten seconds. Ten fucking seconds. If my clock had still been working, the LED would've read 4:31 a.m. We were in the pit of earthquake central, i.e. Los Angeles, January 17, 1994. I pried myself off Kelly's body, which I'd covered like a heroic Marine leaping on a live grenade to save his barracks. "You okay?" I asked, as her breasts heaved against my bare chest like two ticking double-D time bombs.

"Oh, my God!" she whispered, as I scurried for a flashlight. The power was out. Standing completely naked, armed only with a fading beam of light, we surveyed the damage to our room. The television, stereo, CDs and half-empty bottles from last night's six-pack were all smashed on the floor in one pathetic heap. "I think I'm gonna be sick," Kelly said. She climbed back into bed and covered her head with the dusty covers like a child afraid of monsters. I had lived through a couple of these quakes in my life, but poor Kelly was fresh from a farm in Indiana, where the biggest disaster was a tractor flat. With the flashlight beam I saw this scared child, this 19-year-old girl who'd only ever felt one dick—mine—now quivering in the fetal position.

I climbed back into bed and wrapped my arms around Kelly's delicate shoulders. Our naked bodies pressed together, her soft boobs settling into my chest. She sobbed silently as her arms wrapped around me, pulling me closer was refreshing as I ran my tongue through its trough. On the other end, Kelly dug her fingernails into my thighs and cupped my balls. My cock tingled when her mouth slid over the head and down the shaft. The faster she sucked, the harder I tugged on her pussy lips with my teeth. As I sucked and tongue-fucked with every bit of energy I could muster, Kelly let out an orgasmic scream and shoved my dick so far down her throat, the head crashed against her tonsils. Fuck the 6.6 earthquake; we had that fucker beat by 69! If I was going to croak, I might as well die with her booty on.

I came up for air and transferred her cunt juices from my tongue to hers. I reached under the covers and grabbed her thick, muscular thighs, spreading them wide. Her cunt parted with her gams. Another aftershock bounced the room again.

I arched my back and easily slid my prong inside my honey's hairy hole. Sirens sang in the streets, flashlight beams pierced the night, and my girlfriend grabbed my ass and pulled me deeper inside her cunt. Her pussy was tight but felt smooth as velvet against my sensitive shaft. I ran my tongue from her mouth to her chin and down around her neck, painting a beautiful portrait of lust around her fresh face. I couldn't see her emerald eyes, but felt them lock into mine. Her finger rubbed against my asshole, tickling the exterior of the prostate tunnel as I pumped her pussy harder. When her pinky pierced my bung, sperm loaded into my shaft.

The bed began to rock again, as if Linda Blair had entered the room possessed. Glass shattered downstairs, and more books slid from the shelf. I concentrated on the warmth of my girl's pussy until a sickening Thud! punctuated this aftershock. My stomach sank. When I felt for Kelly's face, I discovered a hardbound copy of The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich had smacked my baby on the head. "Kelly," I hesitated. "Kelly!" I screamed. But she was out.

I pulled my mega-erection from her clenching cunt and ran to the bathroom for water to splash her face. When I turned the sink's knob, however, the faucet sputtered air. The fucking pipes were blown!

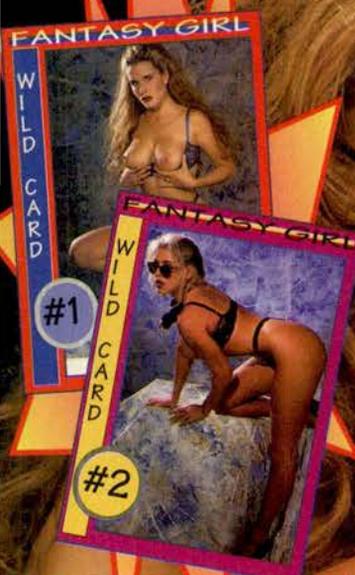

I ran back to Kelly. Her heart was racing, but her head was motionless.

HOT LETTERS

I had to fuck her back to consciousness. I spread her labes and shoved my dick back through those fleshy gates. Her puss was losing its warmth and quickly going dry.

I slapped her face. Nothing.

I kissed her mouth. Nothing.

I shoved my tongue down her throat. Nothing. Nothing at all.

I had to fuck her back to consciousness. I spread her labes and shoved my dick back through those fleshy gates. Her puss was losing its warmth and quickly going dry. The gritty walls of her vagina tickled my cock, until the knobby head found safety at the back of her twat. I pulled my dick almost all the way out of her vagina and slid easily back inside. Several times my prick played this sweet tune with her poon—all the way out, then all the way in—like a violinist using his bow to summon Stravinsky's "Elegy."

Sperm was ready to blow. I pulled my dick free and sat on her chest. Her big boobs pressed into my legs. I wrapped those heavy hooters around my shaft and plugged away, aiming directly for her face. Her squishy tits felt so cool and comforting on my hot schlong, I barely noticed the first dribble of sperm leak onto her lovely orbs. The second blast, however, erupted as if shot from a cannon. My eyes had adjusted enough to see this gobwad cream her closed eyelid. Next her cheeks were smeared with gooey white and, finally, her closed lips were sealed with a jizz kiss.

I slid off my gal and sucked her left breast desperately, hoping her heart might respond. It worked! Seconds later, Kelly's eyes popped open, and the cum slithered off the lid and over to the bridge of her nose. She broke the solid line of chum that clung to both upper and lower lip when she smiled and said, "I love you." She pushed my shoulders down until my dick was again at her cunt's level. Wiping the semen from her mouth along with some saliva, Kelly smeared the slippery substance over the head of my cock. "Plant it inside me," was all she said, and my seeds dripped into her gaping flower pot. Shoving the spermy dew further into her pussy, my dick acted as a shovel, scooping at the sides of her box and remaining inside her like a cork in champagne. I didn't move; we didn't hump. For the next hour and a half, until the sun finally lighted our room, I kept my dick still and stuck inside Kelly's comforting cunt. Money means shit. Faith is crap. God is gash, and I'll never forget that fucking night.

BARE-ASSED AND PREGNANT

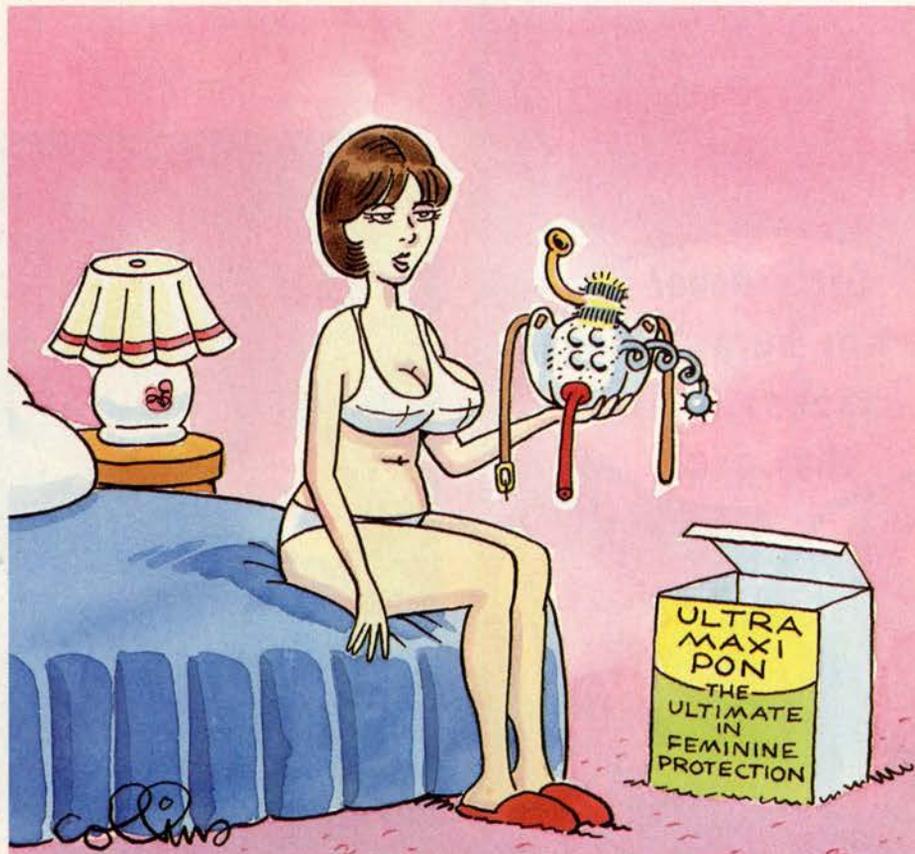

Any guy who's gone through childbirth knows how excruciating those nine months of pregnancy can be. The wife's horny as hell, but as soon as she starts showing, the thought of banging your dick against the side of Junior's head is a real shriveler. My wife Julie and I struck a conceptual compromise. She'd get the dick she needed as long as I could stick it in her ass.

At first things were a little sticky. You see, a pregnant woman has less control over her bowels; so I was constantly pulling out of her shitter with fresh-whipped fudge coating my cone. Soon, however, we learned proper butt-banging technique, beginning with a nice, warm enema. I'd lube up the plastic pole and ease that sucker into her hiney. Then I'd slowly squeeze the rubber bottle until her guts were filled with soapy water. She'd run to the bathroom to unload, then wipe her asshole clean with a wet washcloth. Soon she'd return, ready for love in all the tight places.

I never knew how important ass-fucking could be until one night about eight and a half months into her pregnancy. Julie was preparing a bowl of vanilla ice cream covered in sauerkraut when she got the gleam of filth on her face. "Honey," she cooed, as I washed up for dinner, "how about giving your girl a little treat?" It was the least I could do. I warmed up the enema juicer and flushed her system. When she returned to the kitchen, I brushed my hand across her engorged belly and pulled her sweatpants down to the dirty kitchen floor. Luckily, my wife hadn't gained any weight other than her big gut; so I was still face-to-face with a nice, firm ass. Her butt cheeks were white and glowed red after a playful slap or two. Her pussy smelled of warm milk and reminded me that her tits had just begun to squirt.

I licked her warm, wet twat for a minute or two, lightly chewing the clit with my teeth. That little button pushed against my tongue, and we played clitty tug-of-war for several seconds until her tasty dew trickled into the bottom of my mouth and slid down my throat. Time for a chaser, I thought, and unbuttoned her oversize blouse. Julie looked down at me with that fresh glow of pre-motherhood. Although only 20 years old, she glowed like a 15-year-old schoolgirl with porcelain skin and baby-blue eyes as lovely as any waterfall. I wrapped my hands around those huge milk sacs and dropped to my knees to pray at her big-boobed altar. Rolling the enlarged nip around with my tongue, I sucked the fleshy, inch-long pacifiers until cool, bitter drops of white dribbled from her breast. I splashed my chin with her homemade milk and ran my bottom lip around both larger-than-normal mams, leaving a snail's trail of sap and spittle along the way. "No more tease," she begged. "Give me cock, right now."

I stood behind her and dropped my pants, squeezing more milk from her mommy-knockers and rubbing the moisture onto my dick head for lubrication. Her bung was tight and, thankfully, cool and dry. With her big belly pressing into the side of the sink, I eased deeper into her back portal. She reached between her legs and noodled my nutsac, pulling me even further inside. I grabbed two handfuls of hooter, twisting and turning the big nips with each power-thrust. She was breathing hard, panting the words, "Dump-truck my asshole, baby!" and bucking her hips backward to make my pumping rougher.

Several times I pulled out of her ass and watched the shithole retain the size of my schween. When she groaned, the shitter would shrink back down to pin size. Only then would I hawk another goeey lugey into her ass crevice and spread the sticky moisture into her crinkly asshole with my cock. When I pressed the head back inside, a tiny pop could be heard, as if I'd stepped on one of those bulb-like, seaweed things on the beach.

Her asshole spread outward as I shoved inch after inch inside her shit exit. I massaged her clit with a free hand, feeling her pumped-up navel scrape against my forearm. Water was dripping from her pussy and her big, red pleasure button bubbled under my thumb. With hips a-rockin', my dick glided easier than ever in and out of her asshole. "Oh, God! Oh, God! Oh, God!" she screamed. Suddenly her body shook violently. I figured she was coming; so I pounded her ass harder. When she tried to scream, she actually drooled onto my bare foot. As her cunt convulsed, her bung opened even wider. Her moo-moo hole now felt like a sucking mouth hot with dick friction. I pulled my pecker back until the head was finally exposed, and I watched that purple sucker spit and spew blasts of hot glue down her sticky shitter.

Julie screamed like a battered seal, while I still blew goo against her lovely, round globes. Whew! I was bone tired and hardly noticed Julie holding her gut like the Alien monster was ready to explode from within. "What's wrong, honey?" I asked, walking to the fridge for a cold beer.

"I think I'm..." She never finished the sentence, because a loud splash echoed from the linoleum. Her water broke. I remembered she was pregnant. I took a quick swig of beer before cradling my wife's stomach. Sure enough, someone was knocking at that womb's front door.

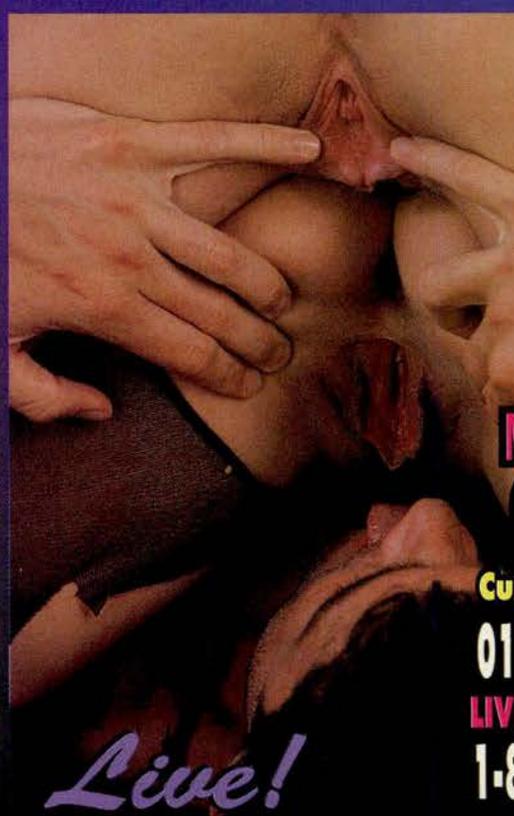

I sat her down and called the doctor, then grabbed Julie's case and sped to the hospital in record time. She successfully delivered a baby boy two hours later. The doctor guessed the premature birth was due to her odd diet; but Julie and I knew that our own brand of exercise had actually pushed our son into the world. In fact, we've named him Buddy in honor of the buttfuck that brought him into the world. He'll probably grow up to be President.

COMPUTER SEX MAKES A HARD DRIVE

by Maxwell Malice

Sitting in front of his computer at his temporary data-inputting job at an investment-analysis firm, 31-year-old Dale from Phoenix, Arizona, wishes he were lying between spread sheets instead of working on them. He makes a quick visual check of the workplace: The coast is clear.

Dale slips a CD-ROM disk into his computer, double-clicks on the icon of a movie projector and then sits back to take in a movie that appears directly on his computer screen.

"Hi, I'm Seymore Butts," whines a voice over the hard-drive soundcard into Dale's PC speakers. Across the screen comes an image with graphics quality reminiscent of a TV show on acid. Dale clicks on the start button, whereupon an onscreen feature called the Letch-o-cam begins scoping out all the gals in a realistically rendered, computer-generated suburban neighborhood. Dale encounters a jiggle-chested babe eager to flirt. Buttons enabling him to make three decisions appear on the screen, inviting Dale to 1) ask her out for dinner; 2) join her in a soothing hot-tub dip; or 3) admit that he's not worthy to so much as breathe his bad breath on her.

Dale chooses none of these pedestrian options. Double-clicking his mouse on a designated icon, he cuts to the real shit.

His new options for interaction with his video fox include doggy-style, a blowjob—or "bring in the horse."

Until recently, the dirtiest things computer geeks could find on the on-line adult market were software disks featuring crudely rendered, static, sub-par pornography, along with a few off-color games and some badly patched-together movies. More complicated features, such as video and sound, required a terrific amount of hard-drive memory. The personal computers that ordinary folks use at home simply did not have sufficient memory capacity to access more sophisticated software.

However, recent advances in the computer technology behind the CD-ROM (Compact Disk-Read Only Memory) enable disks to hold an amount of data that would have blown a personal computer in the past.

CD-ROMs have a unique advantage over other formats of software. A CD-ROM function called Multi-Media involves the integration of sound—music, talking, etc.—with video in an interactive form—the computer user gets to choose what to hear and see. With Multi-Media, computer-based pornography has never looked better.

Imagine a computer-screen version of HUSTLER Magazine that can talk and turn its own pages. Such a commodity may lie in store in the coming age of interactive erotica, or interotica, as the computer-software company New Machine Publishing describes it. Simply put, interotica is interactive computer sex.

So-called interactive programs—where the computer user plays an active role in determining the direction and outcome of a computer-programmed series of events—have been around for years. One of the earliest was computer-program designer Mike Saenz's 1986 animated Macintosh program, MacPlaymate. The computer-screen MacPlaymate program featured a Betty Page-like beauty lying on her back, coaxing the PC user, demanding him to take her clothes off item-by-item. The viewer could then dress the disrobed video vixen in various costumes, including a French maid's frilly miniskirt and a nun's habit, while trying to get her off with an assortment of sex toys ranging from dildos to a disembodied, groping hand.

Following MacPlaymate, Saenz and his company, Reactor, created Virtual Valerie, an animated CD-ROM.

Light years ahead of the previous interactive technology, Virtual Valerie presented the computer user with the challenge of meeting and seducing Valerie before getting into her pants.

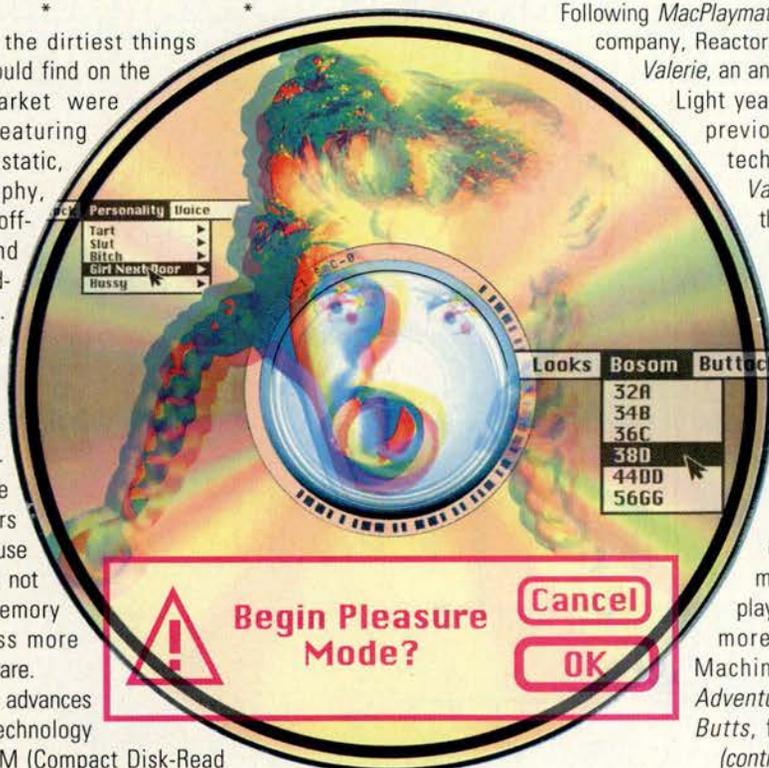

Interactive-software users are ushered into CD-ROM cyberspace by means of a pervert playboy named Seymore Butts in New Machine's Interactive Adventures of Seymore Butts, from computer-

Restrictive attitudes in the name of so-called morality increasingly take the fun out of fucking. Through good, old-fashioned homespun knowledge, hearsay, scientific facts and outright lies, this series strives to spread the word that rubbing uglies is a beautiful experience.

software company New Machine. Armed with a camera of his own, Seymore either spies on his pals, gets a blowjob on the beach, or watches his pals get lucky, occasionally slipping his own pecker into the slot. Since Seymore can't make up his mind, the PC user must decide on his every course of action. The CD features guest appearances by Ron Jeremy and Christy Canyon.

Seymore, along with other interactive computer programs, is digitized video, or high-resolution video. The interactive element for the computer user is to make choices at various points in the story progression, prompting the play of already-made video clips.

Starware, one of the first software companies to introduce adult-market photo CDs, now produces CD-ROM-based movies. Starware's Paradise Club Interactive is a PC-user-motivated tour of New York City's adults-only Paradise Club and the girls who work there, including a phone-sex option of calling them up. Starware's Cat and Mouse, starring Jeanna Fine, Betrayal, starring Ashlyn Gere, and Wicked, starring Terri Weigal, are movies specially made to watch on personal computers using CD-ROM. These movies have what are called "chapters." At various points, the story stops, and the computer user must click on a designated icon to continue the action.

Software companies consider chapter features to be an advantage—viewers can easily pick up where they left off. Actually, the reason behind the inclusion of chapters is related to computer memory—the movies are more easily loaded into the computer piece-by-piece. CD-ROM movies such as The House of Sleeping Beauties, by Pixis Interactive, are made to be viewed in five-minute clips. The House of Sleeping Beauties stars Jamie Summers and Savannah, each entirely subject to the command of the fellow with the disk. Pixis also offers Buttman's European Adventure—a CD-ROM interactive variation on the popular adult-film series, wherein the PC user can pick and choose among Buttman's down-and-dirty encounters.

Because of recent leaps in CD-ROM technology, the average personal-computer user can enjoy superior-quality techno-porn—created at great expense but inexpensively mass-produced—at fairly reasonable cost. CD-ROM advantages include easy storage; they can be hidden among other CDs. Disadvantages include finding where to purchase them and the expense of computer setup and programs.

The list price of interactive adult software starts around $50 or $60 per CD. However, many adult CD-ROM companies find themselves at the mercy of restrictive advertising policies in mainstream computer magazines. Small, independent computer stores are the most likely venues at which to find these products.

The startup cost for the computer novice establishing a computer station from the ground up runs to approximately $1,000. Interactive-systems programmers should invest in a double-speed CD-ROM player, since the older, single-speed models screen the newer, better disks with difficulty, making the movies run like a slide show.

Easier on the budget are the CD-ROM players that videogame companies have developed, which plug straight into the TV set using the basics of PONG-style video-game technology. Although clumsier to operate, these systems provide the same interactive satisfaction of personally dictating a fantasy in the making.

Dale, sitting alone in his Phoenix, Arizona, office, watches AldeaLabs's Girlfriend series appear on his desk-top screen. Girlfriend, featuring the world's first artificially intelligent virtual woman—Girlfriend Teri—spotlights virtual girls in its software that imitate mature, young women. The PC user learns about Teri as the program goes on, and Teri learns about Dale as well.

Teri shows a genuine interest in Dale's home life, inquiring about his family, work and hobbies. She remembers and responds to earlier conversations with Dale. She learns as they talk—with Dale typing his questions and responses. Dale requests she slip into something more comfortable. Casually lounging on a sofa in the privacy of her living room, her blond hair gently spilling across a low-cut top, legs seductively flashing beneath a skimpy black miniskirt, Teri's vocabulary—and intimacy—grows with every question and response. After installing 13 disks—and burning 16 megabytes of his hard-drive—Dale has a desktide girlfriend he can confide in, flirt with...and fuck.

"I am kissing your lips," Dale tells her.

Teri sighs, "You've got me really turned-on."

"Put on your fur coat," says Dale.

"Dale," replies Teri in a sultry voice, obliging, "do you like this?"

Suddenly, Dale's boss enters the office unannounced. With a flick of his mouse, Dale clicks an on-screen icon, instantly transforming his techno-porn companion into the computer graphs on which he was previously at work. 🖱️

Sex Dreams

Though the wet dream is God's greatest freebie, achieving nocturnal emission in and of itself was never Charles's ultimate goal. Charles has rarely had trouble finding females.

Dream Number One:

Charles has been anticipating this moment for a long time—perhaps all his life. Many women have spread their legs and pitched their lubricated pussies along the length of Charley's shaft, but always they were obscure girls, cashiers, students, office workers, nobodies who were remarkable only for the fur-trimmed solace nestled between their thighs. His penis yearns toward the pouting lips of a woman he suddenly realizes is a celebrity of world renown. She is acclaimed actress Shannen Doherty.

On her hands and knees, she has crept up upon him beneath a table in the rear of an immense banquet hall. She has accepted an Academy Award for her gender-crossing performance as Charles in a movie based upon his life. Charles is about to embark upon an adventure that he has been preparing for since he was a sprouting shaver.

"Don't fuck this up," intones a loud, distinct voice that only Charles hears. Shannen's mouth descends toward his pulsing, blue veiner, and they are in a fast-moving automobile. Charles sits in the passenger seat, his trousers around his ankles. Doherty crouches on the floorboards in front of him. Red and blue lights flash behind, and a siren wails. As the car's driver—a swarthy, bearded figure clothed in buckskin—slows the vehicle and pulls to the curb, Shannen's tongue pulls back from the purple tip of Charley's stick. He knows he must act.

He takes control of the car from the shadowy driver and accelerates away from the prohibitive authorities. As he steps on the gas, Doherty envelops his shaft in the warmth of her saliva. The car gains velocity, and the celebrity throat moves faster and faster up and down the entirety of Charles's root. The famous are good for nothing, Charles ruminates, unless we can reach out and fuck them. With this realization, he pulls Doherty onto his lap, where she melds with the car's steering wheel. Charles spins her upon his tingling pivot. The road ahead clears of traffic. Charles closes his eyes and drives, thrusting into the sopping vaginal delta that links him with the freeway of life. An orgasm rises as the car lifts from a runway and soars toward four symmetrically placed stars. He is on his way, and he has arrived. Hot spurts of semen splash upon his thighs, his stomach and into space as he and Doherty fly through the stratosphere, united and whole.

And then he wakes up.

Without pausing to sop up the fresh splooge that's caking upon his torso, Charles switches on a lamp and pulls a pen and spiral notebook from a drawer. He jots down the events of his dream, getting them on paper before they fade. He feels that the motifs manifest in this nocturnal vision, as well as the sperm drying upon his skin, indicate that progress is being made in the realization of his subconscious and unconscious sexual attitudes. Still, he is only an amateur, and he is eager to meet with a professional, trained sex-dream analyst for a definitive interpretation of the symbols conjured by his sleeping mind.

Charles is one man among legions of men who are attempting to unravel the knotty problems of roped-off sexuality that are loosened in the dream state.

"Dream symbols are messengers from man's instinctual core to his conscious mind," elucidates Sigourney Freund, Ph.D., Charles's sex-dream therapist. "The superstitions of medieval times held that sleepers were visited by seductive demons who led the vulnerable dreamer into sins of the flesh. Modern thought believes that such nocturnal emissaries are sent from the unplumbed regions of the self in order to instruct or warn the conscious ego of a shift in deeply held sexual beliefs."

Accredited by the Berkeley, California-based American Association of Psychic Sex Guides, Freund labors under the assumption that, "The unconscious workings of the brain form at least half of any person's total being. The impact of these forgotten instincts upon the waking state cannot be overestimated. The process of forming a full, satisfying erotic nature is greatly accelerated if the dreamer's waking actions are guided by the symbolic content of arousing dreams. Such a course of treatment may help overcome impotence and premature ejaculation, lessen an irrational fear of the opposite gender, or simply assist in the pursuit of a coveted bed partner.

"Of course, some guys will never get laid, but they can get off in their sleep."

Though the wet dream is God's greatest freebie, achieving nocturnal emission in and of itself was never Charles's ultimate goal. Charles has rarely had trouble finding females to join him in sensual dalliance. Still, he has sensed

People who want to get away from it all make harbor tours a profitable venture, but when Honolulu, Hawaii, yacht skipper Adela takes a pleasure cruise without leaving the dock, the only business thriving is the business at hand.

"I'm losing money!" Adela groans with a smile, running her fist fore and aft to tackle her rigging. "Every morning I swear to myself that I'm gonna call the tourists that want to rent my boat, and I end up having to tell 'em I'm booked for the day!"

Adela may be less than shipshape as a maritime merchant, but she's definitely see-worthy.

always that a more wholly fulfilling release was just beyond his grasp.

"Dr. Fruend, in our initial consultations," reveals Charles, "convinced me that an orgasm to satisfy both my partner and myself on the physical, mental, spiritual and psychological levels was possible, if I would pay attention to my dreams and decipher the primal language of my instincts. I become very excited on the way to our sessions."

Charley looks forward to his meetings with Sigourney Ph.D. due to the fact that she is an attractive, youthful-figured woman in her early 30s given to displaying expanses of thigh and hints of cleavage during conferences with her clients, who are predominantly male heterosexuals. Fruend's office is on the 17th floor of a Brentwood, California, high rise. "A setting that creates the proper mood is very important. A lengthy rise in an elevator precedes each session," explains Sigourney. "This lift embodies both the obvious phallic connotation and the more subtle function of elevating libido awareness."

Charles's particular mental blocks to erotic actualization are common, if not simple, obstacles. "Modern man has lost touch with his animal origins," sighs Fruend. "He is manipulated by religious, societal and advertising imagery that misdirects, represses and perverts his natural urges. It's a wonder anybody in our day manages to get off a fuck."

The apparently illogical, incoherent nature of dream imagery is being used by more and more contemporary men as signposts toward lost sources of sexual energy. Some libido seekers, such as Charles, strive for greater sexualization by consulting a private therapist; others work in conjunction with a sympathetic spouse or lover. Great numbers of men have formed support groups that add insight and encouragement to each individual member's wood dreams.

"Dream therapy is astounding the medical community with its success in curing impotence and fear-based homosexuality," claims Dr. Warner Everhard of the Sedona, Arizona, Everhard Institute of Penile Response. "There are basically two schools of treatment. One posits: 'Work with dreams as they are sent up from the satyr within.' The other faction sends signals down to the lurking stallion, luring his raging appetite out into the light of day. We at the Everhard Institute of Penile Response take either approach."

Loss of sexual desire is among the most common sexual maladies breaking up couples today. Its causes are manifold. A long-time screw partner may have gotten fat, become overly familiar, or lost a job. One course of restorative therapy is a cycle of orgasm-inducing dream imagery that is evocative of the neglected mate.

"The process of inculcating dirty dreams, salting the wells of passion, so to speak, is an inexact science," admits Dr. Everhard. "The patient is first sedated into a state that falls between consciousness and unconsciousness. He floats between regions of his psyche. A virtual-reality projector is placed over his eyes and, as he sinks into sleepyland, his retinas are bombarded with pictures that depict various physical traits of his object of lost desire. If she is skinny, we shoot film of string beans, coat hangers and spaghetti straight to his brain."

The patient is then hooked up to a CRT scanner. When brain-wave patterns indicate the subject has reached the crucial rapid-eye-movement (REM) state when dreams are their most profound, he receives an injection of an erection-producing drug and is given a handjob by a surrogate sex nurse.

William Goatherd, whose jealous heiress wife larded on 85 pounds 16 months into their marriage, is a partially satisfied customer of the Everhard Institute. "Dr. Everhard's treatment was still in the experimental stages when my wife paid to put me through the program," relates Goatherd. "The good news, I guess, is that I can fuck my wife now. Unfortunately, I tend to wake up in the middle of it and lose my firmness. On the other hand, I can't walk past the cottage-cheese section of the grocery without pitching a tent in my trousers."

Graduation from the Everhard Institute has failed to upgrade the employment of Lionel J. Grecco's prick. Grecco, homosexual by practice, was plagued by insecurity. What if, he anxiously wondered, I actually like women better than boys, but just don't realize it because I don't know what a girl is like down there? Lionel's doubts, as well as fear of AIDS and dying without having sired children, prompted him to undergo a somnolent crash course at Dr. Everhard's clinic. "Something must have gone wrong," deduces the disappointed Grecco. "I still suck dick, only now I can eat anchovies without gagging."

Male sexual anxieties are as varied as are men, but typical problems occur. A common fear of the timid cocksman is that of being taken over or engulfed by the powerful allure of the female. This apprehension will be portrayed in slumber vision by a swampy delta of enticing quicksand or a slice of squirmy pie descending from the sky.

"Be brave and go for it," urges Clive Petard, founder of a dream-exploration unit in the Tribeca district of New York City. "I've been haunted since college by a recurring dream of being fastened to a conveyor belt at a fish factory. Recurring dreams, we know from the works of pioneering psychologist Dr. Carl Jung, are usually an attempt by the unconscious to compensate for a particular defect in the dreamer's attitude toward life, or else the recurring dream dates from some traumatic event. The fish-factory conveyor-belt dream first appeared after I got drunk at a frat party where the brothers showed a stag film of a man inserting his entire skull into a really big farm-girl's vagina. I came to view women as insatiable holes that could never be filled and would consume any man foolish enough to try. This vagina view was affecting my relations with the opposite sex.

"Finally, I faced my fear in my dream.

As the conveyor belt carried me to the heart of the factory, I kept my eyes open. The belt ran into a furnace that was actually a huge pair of pussy lips. I ceased my struggles and resistance; I accepted that my entire being would be immersed in this huge cunt. I went in feet first, and a warm sensation spread up my body as my legs and torso slid into the labia. By the time I was eye level with the head-size clit, my apprehension of the experience had turned to full, deep joy and contentment.

"When I woke up, I knew I'd changed inside. Today, I'm engaged to be married to a little Japanese girl, she's about 4-10, and my fears of being engulfed rarely surface anymore."

Erotic facets of the female pop up in the male's nighttime picture vocabulary as taillights of a '59 Coupe de Ville, balloons, bits of hair floating in the milk in a bowl of chocolate Cheerios, the pillow people, a light switch—particularly when flipped on by the playful dreamer's tongue. A homebody bachelor who wakes with a sketchy memory of buffing the full, rounded contours of a shapely auto body knows it is time to get out more and find a girlfriend.

Some New Age experts, such as Santa Fe, New Mexico, medicine man Bull Run Cloud Talk, believe dreams have a prognostic function. "Dream say prepare for nookie to come," chants Bull Run Cloud Talk. "Never evade fate, when fate is nookie."

Todd Rapier, who gained his dream awareness from the long-out-of-print, anonymously authored textbook Sleep Your Way to Her Bed, started a new day with the lingering vision of two cats fighting in a gunnysack. At breakfast that morning, the interplay of the two cats was evoked by a rear view of the coffee-shop hostess's skirt as she led Todd to his table. Before leaving for work, Todd asked the hostess to meet him for dinner the next evening. Three dates later, the couple were banging as though they'd been balling for weeks.

Listening to a dream's promptings is, in some cases, only half the job. Sometimes dreams need prompting themselves. "I can turn any man's nap time into orgy time," boasts Marin County, California-based Jonathan Quick. Quick's seminars are well-attended at hotel conference rooms throughout the country. "If a guy's constantly dreaming about thrusting pistons or plugs fitting into sockets or snakes slithering into holes, he needs to prod his unconscious into becoming more direct."

Dr. Freund, Charles's comely analyst, cautions against the methods of fly-by-day operators such as Quick. "A male, if he wishes to establish sexual activities with a female, would do well to steer away from selecting a steady program of autonomous, animated portions of female anatomy. In layman's terms, if tits, asses and pussies are traveling self-propelled through the surreal landscape of the night, Sleepy may be developing a counterproductive trait of objectifying women according to their component parts. It's much more desirable to put the pieces together and enjoy the delights of a whole, fully formed, willing female."

As for Charles's dream, Freund offers an interpretation: "The appearance of a well-known personage in a dream indicates an inferiority complex, often with aspects of megalomania. In Charley's case, his conquest and release with the TV actress show that he has accepted his mobility. He has overcome the negative aspects of his shadow self by taking over from the buckskin-clad driver to reach out and fuck what his limiting beliefs—the policemen who attempt to pull him over—had told him was unattainable. Charley's prognosis is good."

Sex isn't everything. Sex dreams can also be investigated with the aim of expanding the whole, greater consciousness and reaching full potential as an overall human being, evolving into a rounded, self-actualized personality. Assuming, of course, anyone is into that shit. 🐣

"Well, I'll be...you're right! Damn those sign painters!
No wonder we've been losing money."

Children of Gays

The lingering impression of many people is that pedophilia—sexual attraction to young boys—is a key part of male homosexuality. Some fear that gays have a desire to actively recruit children.

Beaming, five-year-old Cindy is celebrating her birthday. She has ice cream, cake and games to play with her kindergarten friends, but what makes Cindy smile widest is that both of her daddies and both of her mommies have come to share the day with her.

When Cindy's biological mother Sally and her lesbian lover decided to bring a child into their lives, they asked a gay male friend to donate sperm to be used in an artificial-insemination procedure. The man agreed to the donation, on the condition that he and his homosexual partner would be considered co-parents who would share with Sally and her lover the responsibility of raising and educating the child. After working out the legal complications, an egg of Sally's was fertilized in vitro with the gay man's sperm, transplanted in Sally's uterus, and little Cindy was conceived and successfully born.

Critics decry such nontraditional families, claiming children raised by gay parents are more likely to be victims of abuse and risk having their own sexual identity unduly influenced. Supporters in alternative-family circles claim that the determination that produced her conception indicates Cindy will likely receive a caring, stable upbringing. One thing is clear as Cindy delightedly tears into a pile of birthday presents: She's a happy kid.

Until recent years, gay parents were usually homosexuals who inherited children from failed attempts at heterosexual married life. Today, openly homosexual individuals of both sexes who wish to parent most often bring children into their lives by means of adoption, artificial insemination or surrogacy.

Gay, 42-year-old Tom, a restaurant owner from Hoboken, New Jersey, is father to a six-year-old daughter and a four-year-old son. Expensive, private adoptions fulfilled Tom's desire to parent.

"The most important thing in my life is my children," says Tom. "I'm not different from any other father. I love my kids."

Statistics indicate that most often, sexual abuse of children occurs between heterosexual fathers and their daughters, but the lingering impression of many people is that pedophilia—sexual attraction to young boys—is a key part of male homosexuality. Some fear that gays have a desire to actively recruit children into taking up a gay lifestyle.

"I'm not raising my children to be gay or straight," claims Tom. "I'm raising my children like anybody else. Gays don't want to turn the whole world gay. I don't want my children to be gay. It's easier being straight. I'm not ashamed of what I am, but it's not an easy life. I want life for my children to be easier than mine is."

Tom admits he confronts special challenges as a gay parent.

"One day, my son is going to come home and say, 'Daddy, somebody called me a faggot,'" Tom worries. "But I've made the commitment to love my children."

Twenty-five-year-old Jonathan Evans was adopted at birth by a lesbian doctor in the first private adoption to a single woman in the state of Kentucky.

"[My mother] was an angry lesbian," Evans explains. "She'd been harshly disciplined by her father while growing up in a conservative, Appalachian coal-mining town. She'd been diagnosed by a psychiatrist as wanting to destroy her father and brother. I often heard her abuse male sexuality. Her classic line was, 'If they can't keep [their dick] in their pants, they ought to cut it off.' [Hearing all of this] as a little kid screwed me up."

When Evans was a young boy, his adoptive mother shared her house with a live-in lover, and Evans was well cared-for by both. However, when the two women split up, his mother occasionally took her depression out on her young son. According to Evans, in one instance his adoptive mother gave the toddler such a brutal beating that he was nearly kicked to death.

"After the beating, I lost my self-esteem," claims Evans. "I developed a terrible weight problem. When I was 13 years old, I weighed 230 pounds and I still hadn't mastered toilet-training. My mother did nothing to help. She would simply clean me up and allow it to happen again and again. I was a fat little boy who couldn't even clean himself."

Evans feels his problems worsened when he entered adolescence and attempted to make sense of his own heterosexual impulses.

"I felt sexually attracted to girls, but I felt ashamed and ugly," Evans says.

"When I was little I simply thought that women naturally slept together. It suddenly occurred to me that they were sharing their bedroom for a specific reason."

"[My mother] always told me how much she hated to see a straight couple—particularly teenagers—holding hands and kissing in public. I thought I had no business touching a woman. I'd jack off and get a thrill out of that, but that's all I could see women being useful for."

Eventually Evans lost weight and developed into an exceptional student. College life offered him strong, positive male role models, and finally getting laid, he says, went a long way toward resolving his self-esteem problem.

Today, Evans finds it hard not to see certain dangers in the relationship of gay parents and their children.

"My mother cared for me very much, and she was extremely supportive in a professional sense," Evans relates. "She was an amazingly strong-willed woman who had put herself through medical school when that was unheard of for a woman in the South. But she used me [as revenge against] her brother and father. She envied men because she couldn't get married to a woman or openly express her sexual desire. [In my opinion,] gay parents may [injure their children with] the anger from the prejudices they've endured. If lesbians with antimale attitudes try to remake little boys into the kinds of men they wish their fathers and brothers and bosses were, it's going to make a kid guilty and ashamed."

New York lawyer David K. grew up in Greenwich Village with his lesbian mother and her lover. David feels he had a happy, supportive childhood and says he experienced little trouble with his heterosexual development.

"If I'd been born a girl, things might have been different," says David. "But a boy's sexual role model is probably not going to be his mother."

David recalls the moment it dawned on him that he was growing up in an unusual household.

"I don't remember my mother being particularly affectionate with her lady friend," David recounts. "I'd see them kiss on the cheek or hug, but it's not unusual to see two women do that. When I was older, I realized that there were only two bedrooms in the apartment. I was in one, and my mother and her friend were in the other. When I was little, I simply thought that women naturally slept together. It suddenly occurred to me that they were sharing their bedroom for a specific reason."

Many young men bringing girlfriends home to meet their parents worry about their parents accepting their dates. David found it occasionally unpleasant for him to bring dates home, because it was never clear to him how accepting his date would be of his mother.

"As I got older," says David, "it became less of a problem. I gravitated toward girls who were more open and tolerant."

As an attorney, David counsels prospective gay parents on adoption laws.

"I think of the mother I had, and I think about someone being denied having a mother like that because the woman is a lesbian, and that disturbs me," says David. "It doesn't bother me that [my childhood] wasn't traditional."

Southern California family-law practitioner Diane Goodman assists a wide variety of gays and lesbians interested in being parents, but says there are some similarities in the cases.

"[The gay clients I counsel who are] opting for adoption are primarily upper-middle class," says Goodman. "Lesbians often achieve birth through artificial insemination. A gay man can have a child by an artificially inseminated surrogate mother."

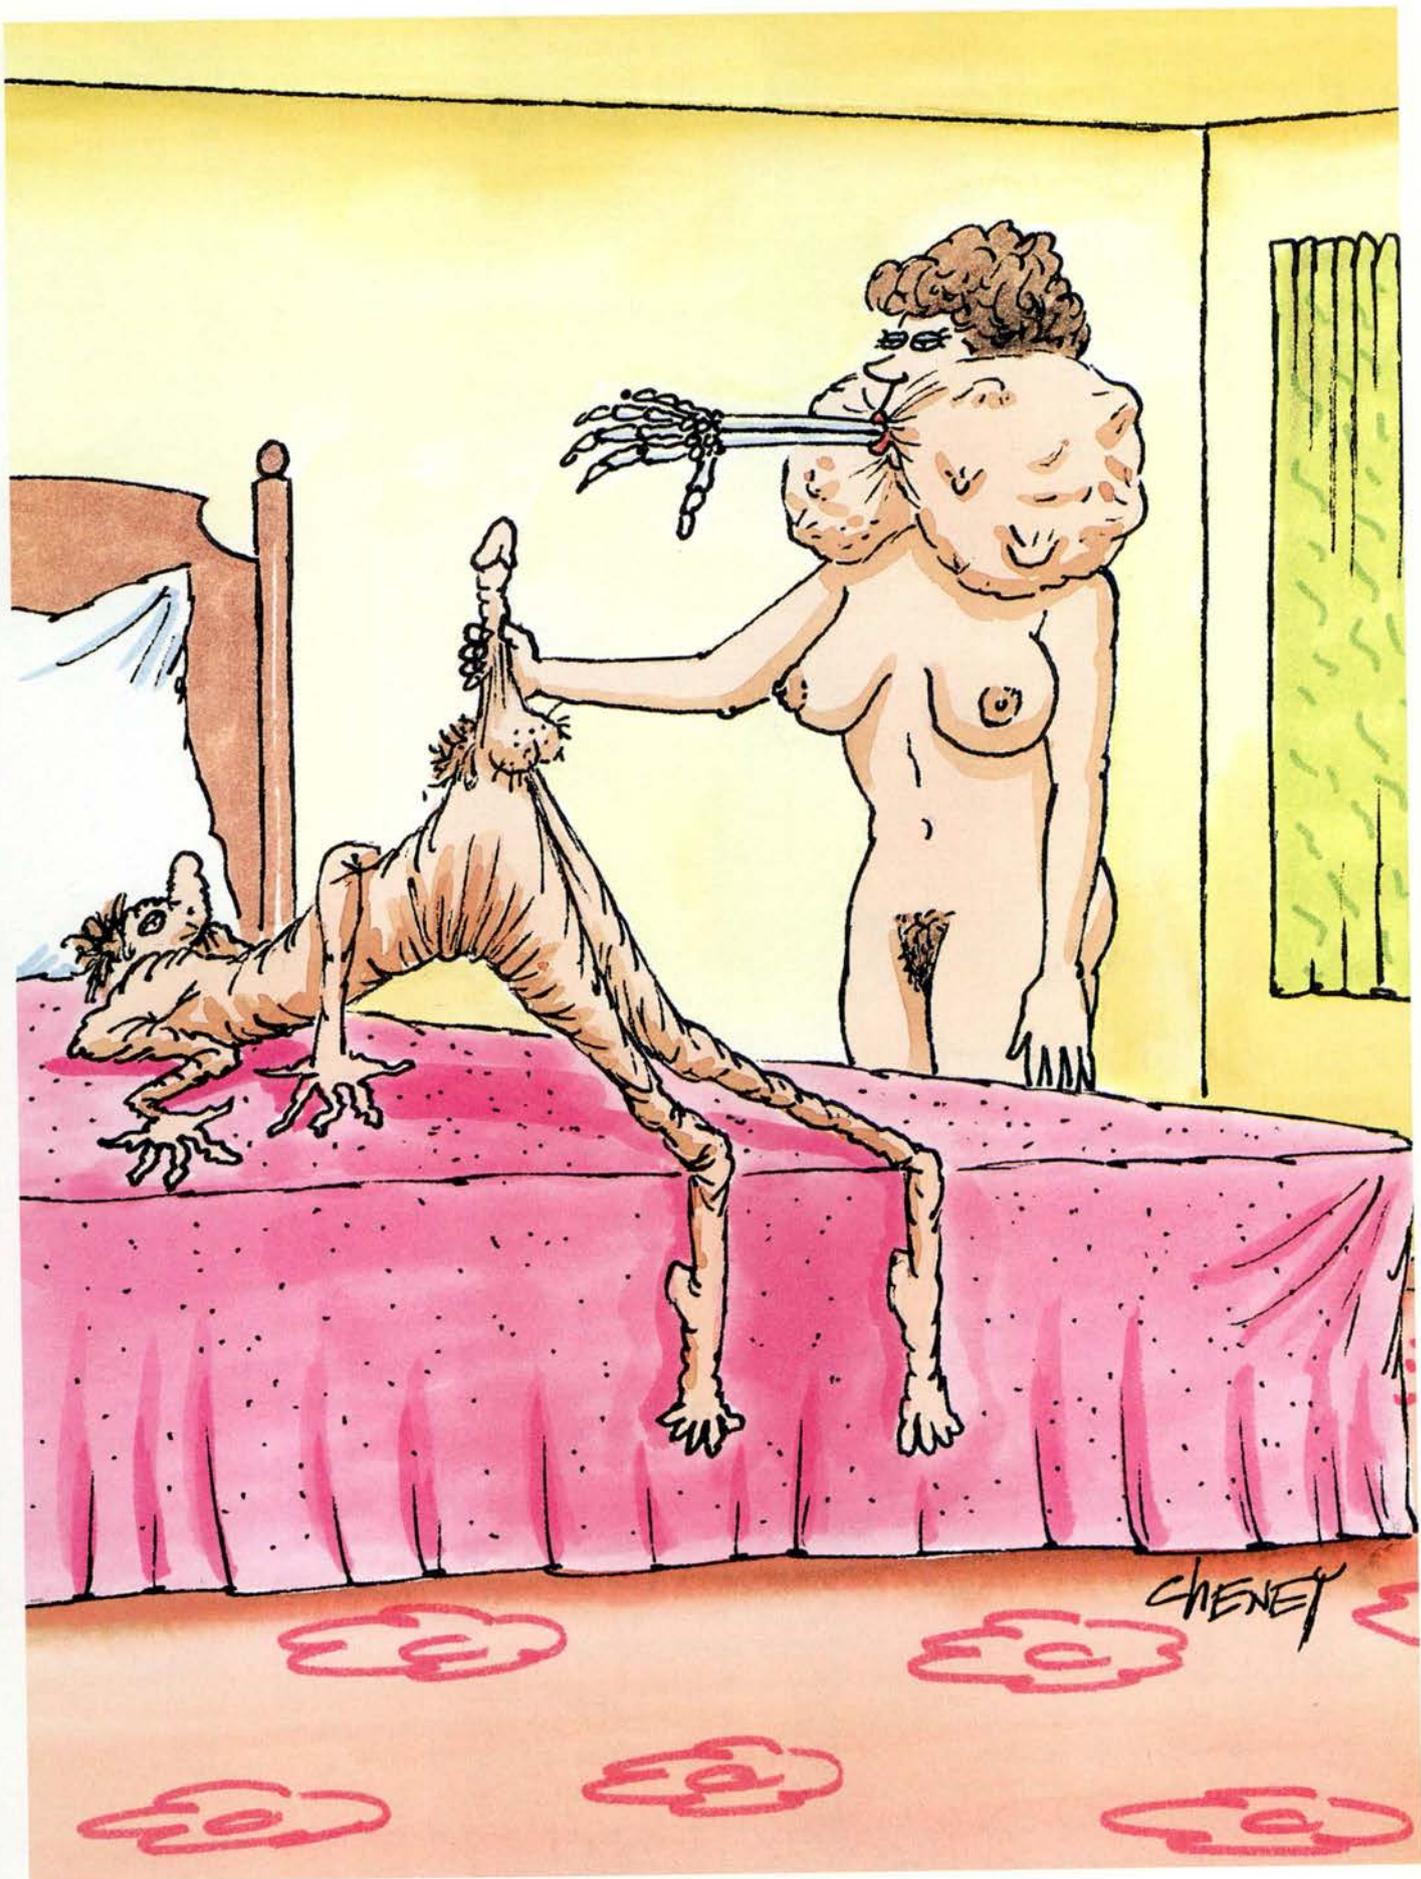

According to Goodman, the priority behind all of her legal work with gay-parent families is to create a solid home for the child.

"One of my cases concerned a 12-year-old boy," says Goodman. "He was old enough to understand that his second mother didn't have a legal relationship to him. If anything happened to his biological mother, this woman could be taken away from him forever. It meant the world to this child to know that the legal adoption [I helped arrange] ensured she wouldn't be taken away from him ever."

Hollywood, California, writer and actress Lana Lloyd grew up in what looked like a typical home of the '50s—a mom, dad and two kids in a tidy, suburban home. However, Lloyd's father was a schizophrenic who found it impossible to maintain a reliable presence in the home, and her mother was a lesbian who lived as openly as possible despite her marriage.

"I had a lot of anger at one point, but I did make peace with my mother before she died," says Lloyd. "My mother refused to play by the rules. She challenged the gay world as well as the straight. But it was hard on me as a child. In the '50s and '60s, you just never talked about having a gay parent."

Hank had been invited for dinner to meet his girlfriend's parents. As the meal was being served, he felt a powerful fart welling up. He held on for as long as possible, but eventually let forth a loud ass-flapper. Thinking fast, Hank glared down at the family dog, who was lying under the table.

"Fido," his girlfriend's mother warned, "behave yourself!"

A few minutes later, Hank cut loose yet another ripe butt blast.

Again, the matriarch cautioned her dog: "Fido!"

After dessert, Hank fired forth his worst gas attack of the evening.

"That's it, Fido!" the mother declared. "Come on out from under there, before Hank shits all over you!"

Question: What do you call a Spanish homosexual?

Answer: A señor-eater.

A couple of nuns were walking into town on convent business. Suddenly a stranger leapt from the bushes, tackled one of the sisters and savagely raped her.

Following her brutal attack, the victimized bride of Christ turned to her companion and said, "This is terrible! How will I explain to Mother Superior that I was raped twice in one night?"

"Twice?" her puzzled friend asked.

"Well, we are coming back this way, aren't we?"

Question: What's the difference between an Irish wedding and an Irish funeral?

Answer: There's one less drunk at the funeral.

Examining the license of a hot young girl he'd pulled over, the motorcycle cop asked, "Is this a Polish name?"

"Yes," the suspect replied. Promptly thereafter, the officer unzipped his fly.

"Oh, no," the Polish princess cried out. "Not another breathalyzer test!"

Tony walked into a bar and took note of two unusual sights: a horse serving the drinks, and a jar filled with five-dollar bills.

Tony ordered a beer from the equine bartender and turned to the guy seated next to him.

"What's up with the jar of fives?" he asked.

"It's a contest," his neighbor explained. "You put a five in the jar, and if you can make the horse laugh, you get to keep all the others."

Tony felt confident. He deposited his entry fee and summoned the horse into the men's room. When they returned, the horse was convulsed with laughter. Tony collected his jackpot.

Several months later, he returned to the same bar. This time the contest jar was filled with ten-dollar bills. Tony asked the patron he'd met last time if the rules had changed.

"Now you have to make the horse cry," the regular answered.

With that, Tony dropped his ten in the till and called the horse into the john again. When they returned to the barroom, the horse was crying hysterically.

"I've got to know," Tony's buddy urged him. "How did you do that?"

"The first time, I told him I was hung better than he was," explained Tony. "This time, I showed him."

The HUSTLER Dictionary defines chocolate-covered cherries as: African-American virgins.

As Jimmy walked alongside his father, he noticed a pair of dogs getting it on.

"What are they doing?" the boy asked.

"Making a puppy," his father responded.

Later that night, Jimmy passed his parents' bedroom and caught them in the middle of sex.

"Hey, Pop," he called. "What's going on now?"

"Well, we're making you a baby brother," his father answered.

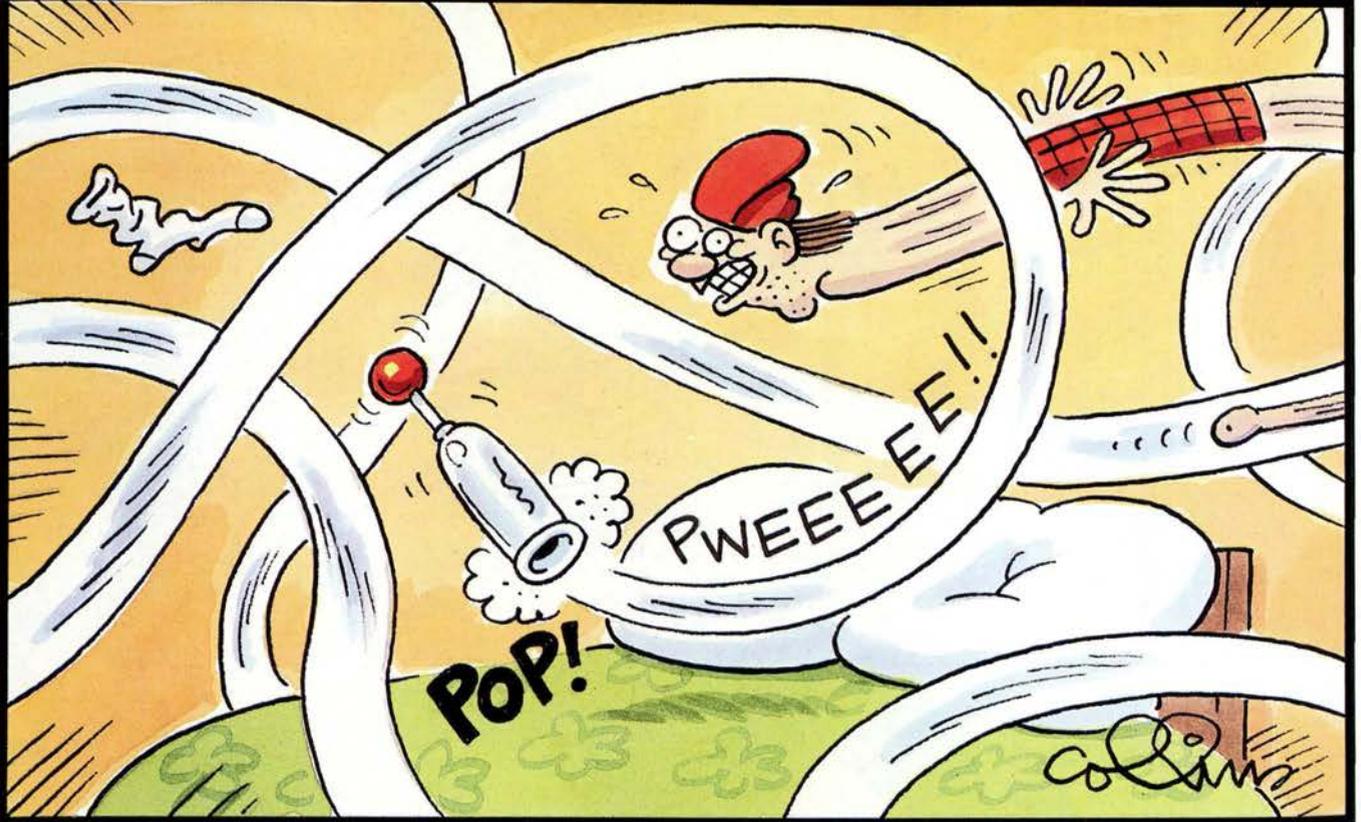

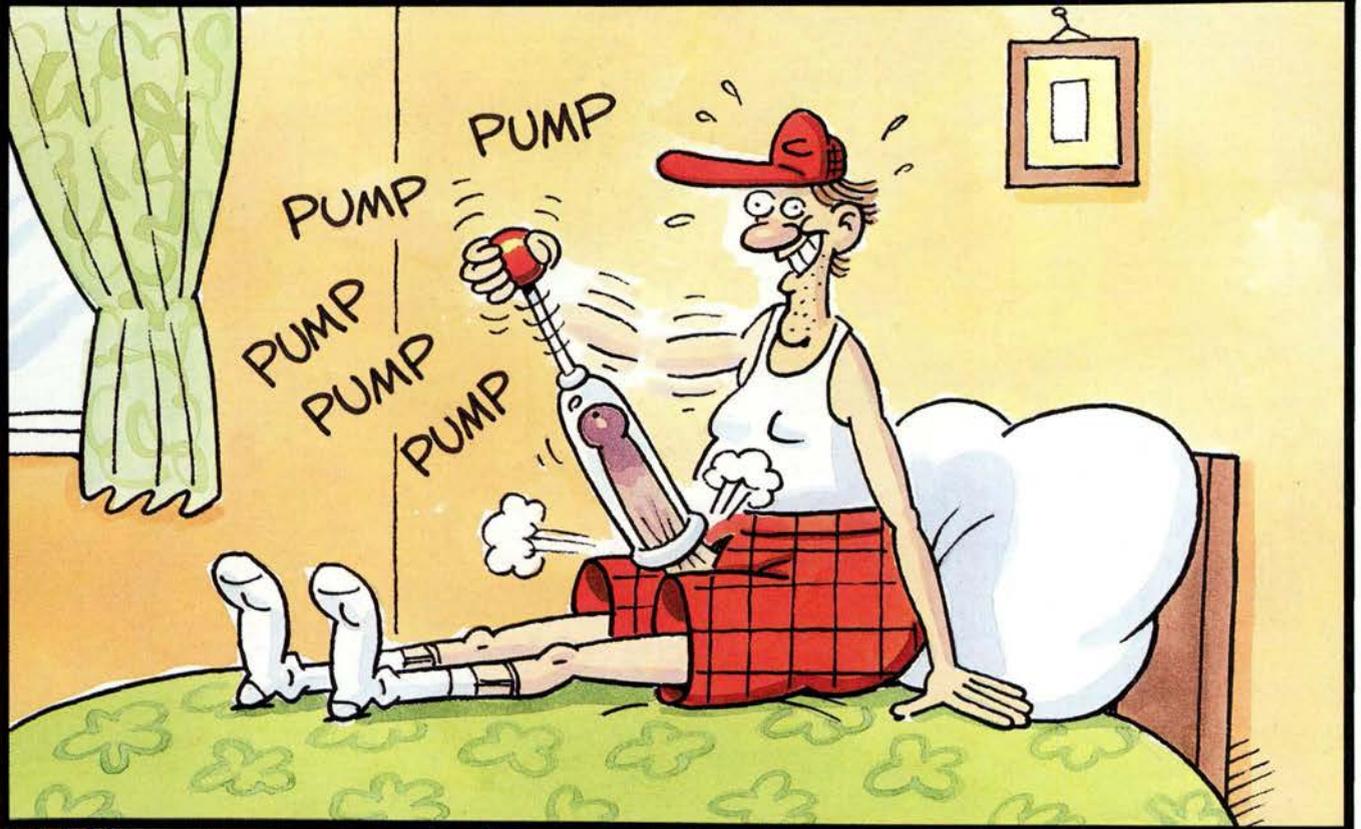

"Well, flip her around then," said Jimmy. "I'd rather have a puppy."

Question: What are two fingers to a bulimic?

Answer: Dessert.

Street Crime Sets Up Shop in America's Malls

Report by Chris Adams and B. Gordon Wheeler

Robbing is almost as common as shopping in America's popular malls—as well as rape, assault and carjacking—but mall officials won't advertise the truth about in-store crime.

Illustration by Mats O. Stomberg

Rogues' Galleria

After selecting several items of clothing, the busy shopper casually entered a dressing room. Upon exiting the dressing room, she claimed to have been raped at knifepoint.

"You're more safe at the mall than at other places."

—Keith Foxe, spokesperson for the International Council of Shopping Centers.

July 1993: Police in Macon, Georgia, evacuated terrified shoppers from the Macon Mall and ordered merchants to barricade themselves inside their stores after 39-year-old Lafayette Hall grabbed a hostage inside the mall's Briar Patch shop.

According to Macon County Police Lieutenant Charles Stone, Hall—who was wanted on suspicion of armed robbery—grabbed a Briar Patch patron to use as a human shield in a deadly standoff with Macon patrolmen.

May 1993: At Grossmont Center, a shopping mall in El Cajon, California, 31-year-old assailant Brian Ross Black took two browsers hostage inside a J. Burton Jewelers store.

According to police and probation reports, Black was armed with three knives when he snatched shoppers in an effort to provoke police into killing him.

"[Black] went into the store with a Bible," said the probation officer's written report. "He believed it was up to God whether he lived or not."

A La Mesa, California, police officer eventually fired five rounds at Black through the jewelry store's plate-glass window. Three of the bullets struck Black, but Black survived the shooting.

January 1993: A 49-year-old California woman ventured into the women's clothing section of a Nordstrom department store located in San Diego, California's, popular Fashion Valley Shopping Center mall. After selecting several items of clothing, the busy shopper casually entered a dressing room. Upon exiting the dressing room, she claimed to have been raped at knifepoint.

The attack was reported in newspapers coast-to-coast. Women across California told reporters it made them fearful of shopping alone.

"I won't use a shopping-mall dressing room," vowed a 33-year-old San Diego bookkeeper, "unless there's an armed guard posted right outside the door."

Said a 30-year-old dental assistant from Santa Barbara, "I just don't understand how something so violent could happen in a place [that appears] so safe."

Shopping-center executives and local authorities understood the situation perhaps too clearly. According to Fashion Valley mall officials and San Diego police, no crime occurred that third day of January at Fashion Valley.

"After investigation, we at the San Diego Police Department have concluded that the [sexual] assault at Nordstrom did not occur," announced Police Sergeant Steve Hinton.

Court officials maintain that the San Diego district attorney's decision not to charge or prosecute the purported victim of the Fashion Valley assault for filing a false police report stemmed from a desire to encourage so-called genuine victims of crime to come forward.

For the most part, however, shopping-mall owners seem to be conspiring to ensure that the complaints of victims of mall-related crime are kept behind closed doors.

According to William Cunningham, president of Hallcrest Systems Inc.—a Virginia-based research and consulting firm specializing in corporate security and law-enforcement issues—under the seeming safety of America's shopping malls lurks a hotbed of criminal activity.

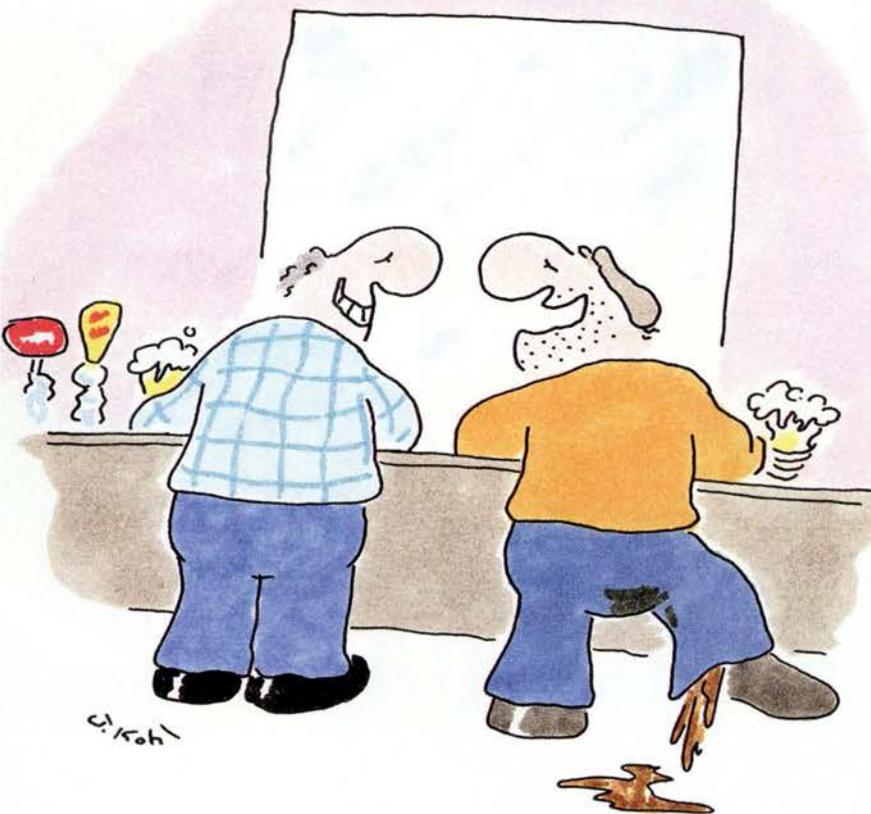

"[Felonious incidents] happen much more frequently than people imagine," states Cunningham.

The approximate degree of crime existent in America's malls is a matter largely of conjecture, even for police.

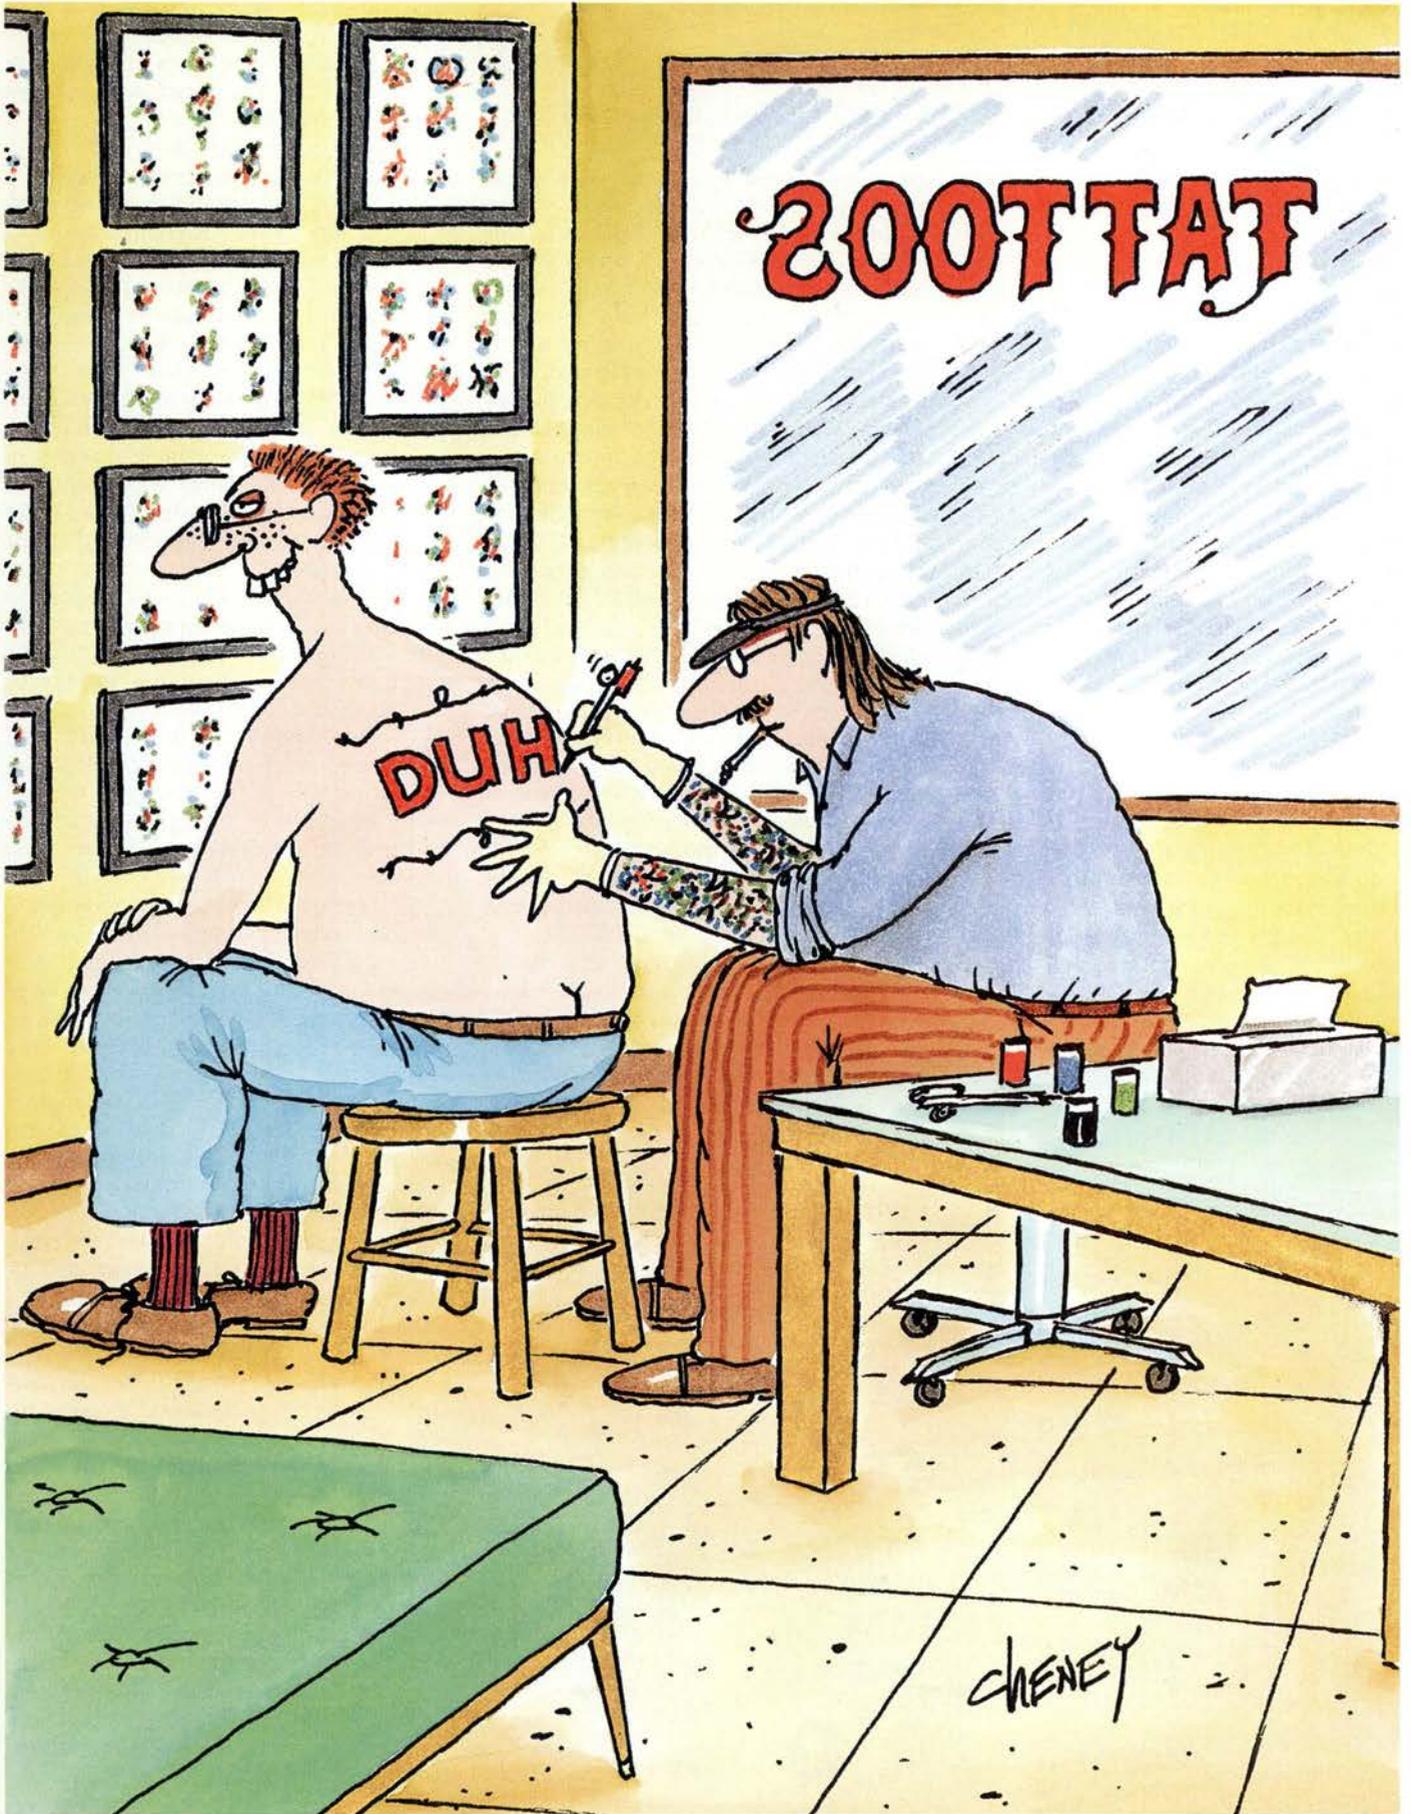

Law-enforcement and other public-safety agencies don't record the type or rate of crimes committed at individual shopping malls. Mall officials do keep such statistics, but because most malls are privately owned, mall-related crime reports are seldom made public. Nevertheless, based on exposed reports and eyewitness accounts, shopping malls must rate among the most active crime spots nationwide, eliciting repeated reports of assault, carjacking, rape and robbery.

"More [mall-related crime] goes on than is reported to police," confirms Robert Beardsley, a former La Mesa, California, policeman and president of the Public Safety Training Association.

April 1990: A man identified by police as Reginald Moreman of Anniston, Alabama, pulled out a .38-caliber pistol and opened fire on a lunch crowd in a suburban mall in Atlanta, Georgia,

"Goodness! I do believe I've cut a wet one!"

Rogues' Galleria

Officer Ganz, who was struck three times, pulled his pistol but did not return fire. Officials say the gunman pointed his semiautomatic weapon at the 13-year-old boy, but did not pull the trigger.

killing one man and injuring four others. According to police, Moreman was carrying papers indicating that he had been released from a local mental institution the day before. Moreman turned himself in to the authorities after the shooting and was charged with one count of murder and three counts of aggravated assault.

December 1993: Twenty-nine-year-old Manhattan Beach, California, police officer Martin Ganz was working holiday drunk-driving-abatement patrol when he used his patrol-car loudspeaker to halt a vehicle in front of the Manhattan Village shopping mall. Riding in the patrol car with Ganz was Ganz's 13-year-old nephew, who was participating in a department-sponsored ride-along program.

Investigators state that when Ganz got out of his car to issue the driver of the stopped vehicle a traffic citation, the suspect opened fire. Ganz retreated behind his patrol car, and the suspect followed, firing several additional shots. Officer Ganz, who was struck three times, pulled his pistol but did not return fire. Officials say the gunman pointed his semiautomatic weapon at the 13-year-old boy, but did not pull the trigger.

As the suspect sped away in a small car, Ganz's nephew called for help on the patrol-car radio. Ganz was pronounced dead 45 minutes later at the Harbor-UCLA Medical Center.

January 1994: An official at United Artists Theaters defended security measures at the nationwide chain after a woman watching the film Schindler's List was shot and wounded by a man behind her in the audience of a shopping-mall movie theater in San Diego, California. The shooting touched off panic among the crowd of patrons.

Police identified the suspect as James Michael Kirby, 45, of San Diego. Kirby was arrested late afternoon the following Thursday in the San Diego-area community of La Mesa for a traffic violation.

Police contend that Kirby fired a single round from a .38-caliber handgun. The bullet penetrated the back of the seat in front of him, critically injuring 40-year-old secretary Ellen Campbell. Following hours of surgery, Campbell's condition was listed as serious later that day.

Irene Kirby, the mother of the suspect, stated she and her son were seated together in the auditorium but became separated during the pandemonium that erupted in the movie theater immediately following the shooting. Ms. Kirby rejoined her son minutes later at their car, and the two left the mall without contacting authorities.

Responding to Ms. Kirby's claims that her son's gunfire was accidental, San Diego Police Lieutenant Jim Collins replied, "[Kirby] has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon and will remain in custody."

After being mugged in the parking lot of a shopping center in Tyson's Corner, Virginia, the victim—a young woman—attempted to sue the mall for security negligence. The claimant's lawyer petitioned mall officials for statistics denoting how many—if any—other shoppers had been attacked in the same location. Mall representatives withheld the desired information.

Complained the victim's attorney in the fall of 1992, "There was simply no place to turn to to [determine] the amount of crime that had occurred at that shopping mall."

For financial reasons, mall owners do not encourage their shoppers' right to know about what crime-related risks might be involved in entering their place of business.

"These businesses don't want bad publicity," explains former policeman Beardsley. "There's nothing in the law that compels [mall owners] to report the criminal incidents they see."

September 1993: At a popular shopping center in La Habra, California, 26-year-old Tina Roxanne Rodriguez was beaten to death in the mall's parking lot as her child and a few shoppers looked on.

"At this time [the murder of Tina Rodriguez] is being treated as a hate crime," says La Habra Police Sergeant Keri Wilson. "There is some evidence that racial slurs may have taken place."

Rodriguez, an African-American mother of four, was attacked by two women—ages 22 and 17—who slammed her head into the pavement repeatedly.

December 1991: At the Fashion Fair Mall in Fresno, California, 26-year-old Mari Gamble lost her fiancé—forever.

Mari and her husband-to-be, 23-year-old Fresno State University student Robert Luecke, and Luecke's 15-year-old sister, Kristle, parked their car and were about to begin an evening of Christmas shopping at the Fashion Fair.

A vehicle pulled up behind the trio. One of its occupants leaped out brandishing a pistol.

"[The assailant] pointed the gun at me and said, 'Give me your wallet,' so I gave it to him," Mari relates. "I took off my jacket and gave him my purse."

According to Mari, the gunman then turned toward Luecke, who had compliantly raised his hands up above his head, and demanded his wallet.

A teenage gunman fired at least five rounds from the upper level of Southern California's Westminster Mall, hitting a 13-year-old girl twice in the back on the level below.

"I saw [Luecke] give the guy his wallet," Mari says. "Then [the robber] shot him."

After firing the first shot, the gunman turned as if to flee, then senselessly fired a second time as the university student lay dying on the ground. Not one of the three victims had resisted the gunman's demands.

July 1993: As terrified shoppers scattered and ducked for cover, a teenage gunman fired at least five rounds from the upper level of Southern California's Westminster Mall, hitting a 13-year-old girl twice in the back on the level below.

Police arrested 18-year-old Phong Phan Dang and charged him with four counts of attempted murder for allegedly shooting at the 13-year-old and three of her girlfriends. Dang was also charged with one count of "street terrorism" for allegedly belonging to a street gang.

December 1993: At the Mall at Chestnut Hill in Boston, Massachusetts, a tuxedoed pianist played jazzy Christmas carols for an upscale clientele. Shoe salesman Chris Drumm occasionally looked up from his day-to-day tasks to see shoplifters rush from shops, careen down the escalator and out the doors.

Thousands of people pass through any given mall every day. Although public records and word of mouth indicate a definable number of them arrive with violent intentions, mall owners are not legally permitted to stand at an entrance and screen the people they allow to enter.

"There have been a number of Supreme Court cases [enforcing that restriction]," states Robert Sorenson, vice president of property management for the Hahn Company, which owns and oversees the operation of some 50 malls nationwide.

When the general public is invited to enter a place of business, says Sorenson, everybody must be allowed to enter, without exception.

Dante C. Tobias, a 19-year-old African American, successfully sued Sacramento's Sunrise Mall for using a dress code based on a so-called gang profile.

Tobias, of Macon, Georgia, was arrested on September 18, 1993, after he was detained by mall security for wearing baggy pants and then refused to leave the mall.

Nevertheless, most mall officials steadfastly refuse to publicize the existence of any physical threat or danger to the shoppers who patronize shopping malls. For lack of hard evidence to the contrary, police must generally assume that malls are as safe as mall authorities maintain.

Most law-enforcement agencies track crime statistics by areas, such as census tracts. Using this method, it's impossible to tell whether a rape or robbery occurred on mall property or in an apartment building in the same neighborhood.

"As a general rule," Police Sergeant Bill Lewis of the Westminster Police Department professes, "we don't have violent activity at the malls."

"The same societal pressures that affect downtowns are heading to the shopping center," reports Debra Hazel, mall editor for Chain Store Executive, a shopping-industry magazine published in New York. Hazel believes shopping malls are becoming the new town centers—and crime comes with the territory.

"Everybody says the mall is the new downtown," responds Robert Sorenson. "But it [the mall] already is downtown. We're past being new."

There is no law that says a shopping mall shall not have isolated stairwells where muggers and rapists can trap their victims. No mall statute reads, "Trim back the shrubs that thieves and murderers might crouch behind."

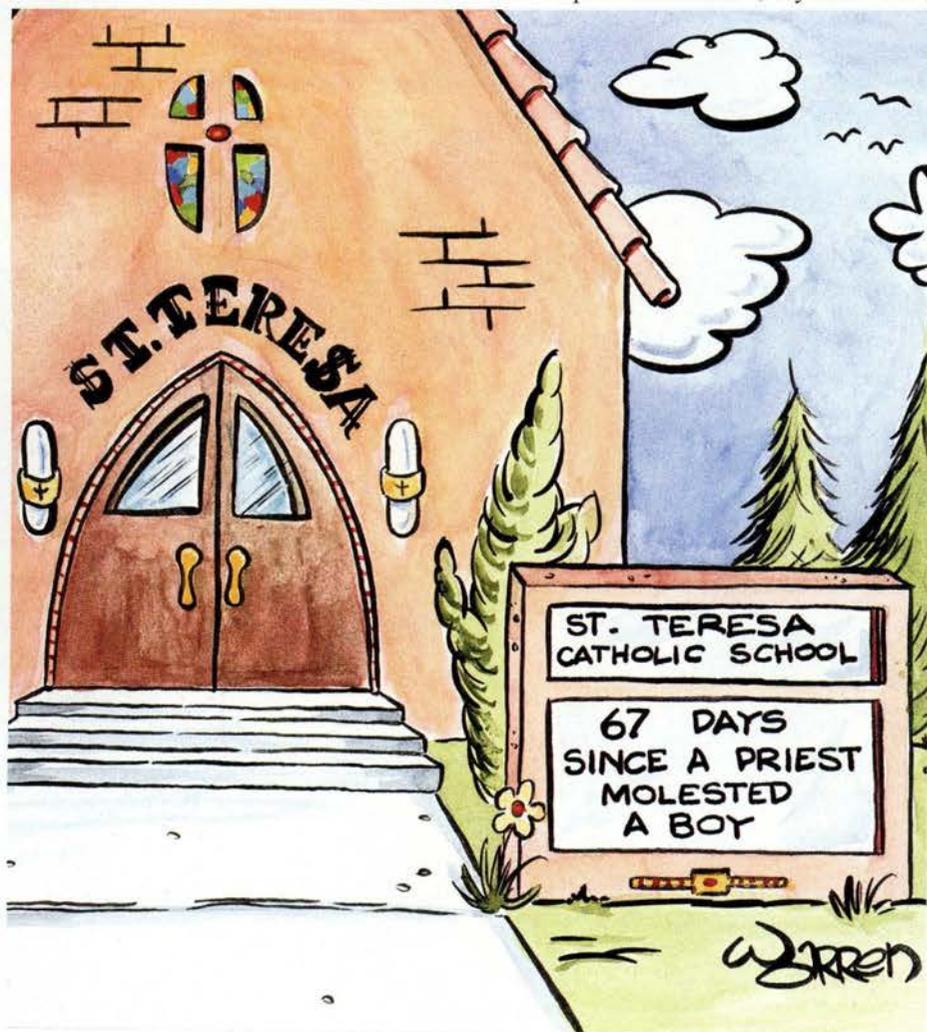

The array of security devices most malls have in place are designed and intended to protect the stores and malls, not the shoppers.

Admits Robert Sorenson, "There is no standard, legal or otherwise, for an adequate level of security in malls."

"[Due to established law] there's kind of a balance between the privacy rights of a customer and...the duty of the store to provide a secure location for the customer or a customer's personal property," says California State Deputy General Ramon de la Guardia.

"The things that bothered the kids of gay parents—such as seeing their mommies kiss—wasn't because it was two women kissing. They didn't like to see their parents kiss, period."

As a young woman, Lloyd plunged into Southern California's '70s sex-drugs-and-rock 'n' roll scene.

"I rebelled against homosexuality," relates Lloyd. "I tried to be a healthy heterosexual, but I discovered that I couldn't have orgasms with men like I wished I could."

Lloyd eventually found her way into her own unconventional family. She married a gay man and had a child with him.

"[My gay husband] got his green card because of [our marriage], and I got to be the parent in control," Lloyd explains. "I've been quite open about having a lesbian mother. I'm not a product of lesbianism. I'm a heterosexual." Lloyd supports the idea of gay parenting. "I think lesbians today have a chance to grow up without the anger and hatred that was shared among women in my mother's lesbian culture," Lloyd professes. "Today's young lesbians have seen and studied the past and realize that the power of life is a wonderful choice. I've talked to many gay men who are realistically committed to developing the nurturing side of parenting [without bringing into it the politics of sexual behavior]. They don't take having children for granted."

Sex therapist Dr. Susan Block counsels people who are considering becoming gay parents or wish to talk about the special struggles of growing up in a gay household. She sees no reason to deny gays and lesbians the right to become parents, but feels that parental homosexuality shouldn't be dismissed as a potentially influential factor in a child's development.

"To say that heterosexual parents are better than gay parents is absurd," believes Block. "But to say that having two gay parents is not going to influence a kid's sexuality is also absurd. Gay parenting is an influence. Children are influenced by their parents' sexuality."

According to Block, the influence of gay parents may actually help a child to grow into his or her own sexuality.

"A parent should be open to children exploring their sexuality [in order to determine and grow comfortable with becoming who they really are]," believes Block. "Gay parents, having been through struggles of their own as children, are perhaps a little more sensitive to the struggles that their own children go through when coming to terms with their sexuality. It's difficult for any parent to deal with their child's sexuality. Parents struggle with teaching their kids about sex all over the world. Gays may have problems raising their kids, but heterosexuals certainly have problems too."

Block feels that there are more important parental characteristics than sexual preference.

"'Family values' is a phrase that's been co-opted by the religious right, and they usually use it to mean a father in charge and a mother and kids at home," says Block. "But parents must teach personal values to young children, and there's a lack of responsible teaching happening today, judging by the growing evidence of community violence. Two gay parents who can teach a kid [to respect the community] I would consider better parents than those who teach their kids otherwise, regardless of the couple's sexual orientation."

In Virginia, in September, 1993, a woman and her lover lost custody of the woman's child to the woman's mother, not because she was judged to be an unfit mother, but because she was a lesbian. In Virginia law, sodomy is a felony. Homosexual households are assumed to be homes where felonies are being committed, and therefore not suitable places for children.

"The Virginia woman's mother raised her own daughter, who turned out to be a lesbian," argues Block. "So why is it any less likely that she's going to raise another gay kid, or any more likely that the kid will be a heterosexual? Having the grandmother raise the kid isn't a better choice if the legal concern is to protect the child from influence, because the grandmother already raised one lesbian."

Block feels any parents who raise happy kids who aren't drawn to lives of crime have done an admirable job.

"The most important thing is to teach children not to resort to violence," reiterates Block. "In my opinion, a reverence for life is the most important lesson a parent can teach."

Allen Dean, the biological father of his ten-year-old daughter, heads a Los Angeles-based community group that advises prospective gay parents. Dean, who is gay, was briefly married. He enjoys a friendly relationship with his ex-wife, and the two have allowed their daughter to work out her own schedule for their joint custody. Dean is considguards—might change their minds if they were informed of the fact that the great majority of people hired as mall security guards have little or no law-enforcement experience—and do not require training if unarmed while on the job.

Meanwhile, statistics from the Escondido, California, police department indicate 76 automobiles were stolen from the parking lot of the North County Fair Mall during 1992.

In mall parking lots throughout the greater Boston, Massachusetts, area, police report that crime is rampant. Though car thefts have dropped by nearly 50 percent during the past five years in former hotspots such as the South Shore Plaza mall in the town of Braintree, break-ins are on the rise by thieves who smash windows to snatch gifts left on car floors and backseats.

South Shore Plaza store manager Lisa Allen claims the mall has repeatedly been victimized by so-called bump-and-run thefts: Groups of teenagers storm stores, grab armfuls of clothes and make for the exits. As well, a gang of polite, thirtyish women operate what is known as a distraction scam in stores throughout the plaza, whereby one or two women sideline salesclerks while a third, unattended, steals merchandise.

"They're very good," says Allen. "It's their job."

"Anywhere you get vast numbers of people in a confined area, the chances of an increase in crime become greater," says Brockton, Massachusetts, Police Chief Paul Studenski. "There is a feeling of anonymity wherever a criminal can melt in with a vast number of people and cars."

Florsheim Thayer McNeil store manager D. Ranone recalls the time he arrived at the South Shore Plaza mall to find two robbers holding up a bank and a heavily armed accomplice standing guard among shoppers outside. In Kingston's Independence Mall, say authorities, thieves stalk young mothers toting children, waiting for a moment of inattention to grab their unattended purses.

As long as mall administrators decline to fairly inform the shopping public of the risks of crime involved in patronizing their establishments, the toll of victims rises.

Concern about profit is an understandable business priority. However, for any company to put profit over the welfare of its clientele is more than bad business—it's criminal. 🐼 ering adopting a second child.

"I saw a flyer at one of the gay coffee-houses," recalls Dean. "I thought [the gay-parent program] looked like an interesting group. I made the mistake of opening my mouth at the first meeting and saying 'You know what you need to do...?' Within a few months, I was leading the meetings."

Although gay parenting has received more and more attention in the media lately, both positive and negative, Dean says the subject remains something of a secret in the gay world.

"I'd always felt like an oddity because I have a child even though I'm gay," Dean states. "The fact that I want more children really makes me different!"

According to Dean, gay parents commonly worry about the effect of their sexuality on their children.

"Gay parents really have to want their kids," says Dean. "If having kids is important enough to somebody that they work that hard to get it, they tend to be more concerned parents. It's a constant fear of mine that my daughter [may not be] getting a healthy and supportive upbringing and fitting in with her peers.

"The center I work at offers a separate support group for the kids of gay parents. The kids came to speak to the adults in my group. The prospective gay parents in my group wanted to know what other kids say to kids of gay parents.

"The kids who spoke to us were all pretty bright and articulate. They indicated that most of the time having gay parents was a non-issue to them. They were accepting of their families, and said that's the way they talk about it to their friends; so their friends are accepting of the situation as well. The things that bothered the kids of gay parents—such as seeing their mommies kiss—wasn't because it was two women kissing. They didn't like to see their parents kiss, period. When I was a child, I didn't like to see my parents kiss either."

Dean feels it is not as important to look at who the parents sleep with as it is to look at how well the kid sleeps.

"I don't want to sound idealistic, and obviously I'm not your typical family-values advocate, but there's no substitute for a loving household," Dean stresses. "Every child is different, and every family is different. Kids need a loving, supportive atmosphere. And parents are parents. That doesn't ever change." 🐼

"Let's just keep this affair our little secret."

CAN'T BRING HER TO ORGASM?

The Tongue™

Then use the Tongue during your next lovemaking session! 1-800-690-5239

Are you one of those men who... Has difficulty getting her off! Has a woman who lacks sexual desire! Tires during oral sex (often before she climaxes)! Has to ask or initiate sex most of the time! Wants sex more often and wishes she did too!

If even one of these problems applies to you then buy the Tongue immediately! Almost all women need clitoral stimulation in order to climax. However, it is difficult and awkward for men to continually provide the manual excitement during intercourse. The Tongue will ensure that she gets the necessary stimulus and YOU WILL GET THE CREDIT! A fine speed switch delivers constant circular motion and TIRELESS RHYTHM. Use it before, during or after intercourse, both easily and endlessly. She'll be spellbound under your control. Four "C" batteries (and optional plug-in adaptor) provide lots of power and endurance. This is NOT a vibrator... this is better! An absolute must buy for those hard to please ladies. Reg. $39.95 Introductory offer $29.95 plus S & H. Order the Tongue now and MAKE HER YOUR SLAVE!

Allow her the DOUBLE PLEASURE of penetration and oral sex simultaneously. Specially designed for use only with the TONGUE, this incredible little accessory will readily accommodate most dildos and vibrators. Only $6.95, S & H free when ordered with the TONGUE.*

WOULD YOU LIKE THE SEX POWER OF A BULL?

All over the civilized world the natural substance TOCOPHERAL is given to breeding bulls to get quicker repeating erections and stronger orgasms. Scientifically proven: TOCOPHERAL given daily increases the DESIRE and ABILITY to copulate. Not conclusive in humans, but if you'd like to WANT IT MORE and DO IT MORE, if you'd like a BIG STIFF ERECTION that goes the distance and an orgasm that rattles your bones, try it. Safe. FDA approved for human consumption.

THE NEWEST, MOST LIFE-LIKE

Solid ORIENTAL FUCK DOLL

Reg. $39.95
now $14.95

Advanced technology produces a new level of realism and sensual pleasure never before experienced!

THE NEWEST, LATEST MODEL - The "love doll" has really evolved over the years - from the crude but functional "artificial vaginas" of the early sixties, through the breakthrough "foam" dolls of the seventies to now - the most technologically superior sex partners ever created!

May we introduce... JOY-LI

"Very affordable, very VIRGINAL in design..."

If you've never had a love doll, or your budget is limited, or you're simply looking for the best value for your money, our newly released model of the most popular love doll design in history is just the ticket. Petite, young looking JOY-LI is the spitting image of a very famous porn star - with strict attention to those "important" details: silky soft, supple skin; voluptuously curved in all the right places; with firm, hard nipples breasts, a succulent, "deep throat" mouth; extra-slug "cherry" vagina, and super-tight anal opening for backdoor thrills beyond belief. The best buy - definitely the way to go if you want hour after hour of endless pleasure and complete sexual satisfaction! only $14.95 OR

The Deluxe Model - comes with everything.

1. Seduction costume for the ultimate turn-on.

2. Electronic pussy to caress your cock.

3. Talking unit, she'll purr, scream & moan as you ram it deep inside.

ENLARGE YOUR PENIS TO ITS MAXIMUM!

ADD INCHES TO YOUR PENIS! HAVE ROCK HARD ERECT MEASUREMENTS UP TO 12 FULL INCHES, OR YOUR OWN MAXIMUM POTENTIAL!

GET READY FOR A SYSTEM GUARANTEED TO MAKE A "BIG DIFFERENCE" IN YOUR SEX LIFE!

Now... ANY MAN, ANY AGE, ANY RACE, ANY SIZE, can experience dramatic penis enlargement with our fool proof program. The MAXIMA SYSTEM couples precision power pumps (2 models available) with a "failsafe" video that eliminates goofs, wasted time, and makes possible a 45% INCREASE IN SPEED over conventional methods! The male erection is caused by blood flowing into hollow caverns inside the penis. The cavern fills with blood and the penis grows in size and thickness and becomes stiffer and stiffer until the caverns are engorged to capacity. The MAXIMA SYSTEM enable any man to increase the capacity of the penises caverns by making them bigger.

Result? A longer, thicker penis! You'll see visible results immediately! You'll see how really FAT, how LONG, how HARD and STIFF your penis can get! TWO STATE-OF-THE-ART VACUUM ENLARGERS TO CHOOSE FROM!

① The HEAVY DUTY MANUAL model is a finely crafted precision instrument designed to create the vacuum needed to make the male organ LONG and THICKER.

② And for the connoisseur, the powerful ULTRA DELUXE ELECTRIC model (U.L. approved) is equipped to give you continuous, even sucking power until you shut it off! The electric model is perfectly safe and as quiet as a whisper. IT'S NOT JUST THE MILLIONS WE'VE SOLD... IT'S THE NUMBER OF SATISFIED CUSTOMERS!!

Have you ever been embarrassed by the size of your penis? Have you tried to convince yourself it's not how big it is but how you use it? As long as your sex partner needs to be completely filled, you owe it to yourself to do something about a larger penis now!

Our penis developer will increase penis length, thickness, and make your erection harder and stiffer.

Did you know a woman's vagina will stretch and enlarge to accommodate a large penis? Imagine her excitement as you penetrate deeper than you ever have before.

How does our penis developer increase your penis length and diameter?

The answer is called hyperemia, a medical term to describe blood filling into caverns of your penis. The caverns expand causing your penis to grow in size and diameter. The superior pump action and sealed vacuum of our penis developer urges your penis to grow to mammoth proportions. Our penis developer is not just a vibrator like some electric units you may see advertised. Remember, it is the precise slow super pumping action of our space age designed penis pump that builds your penis larger than you ever dreamed possible.

NEXT MONTH IN HUSTLER

July HUSTLER on sale May 10, 1994

BLOW US

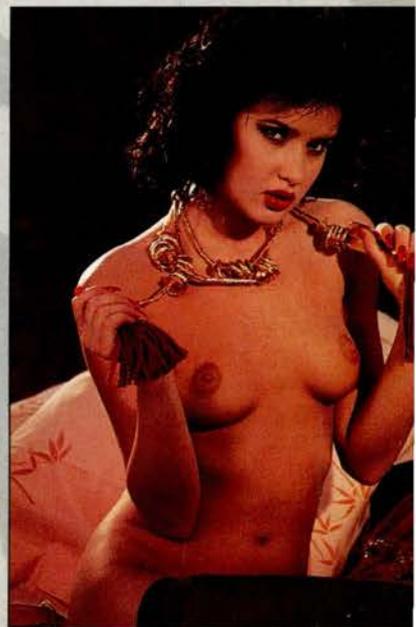

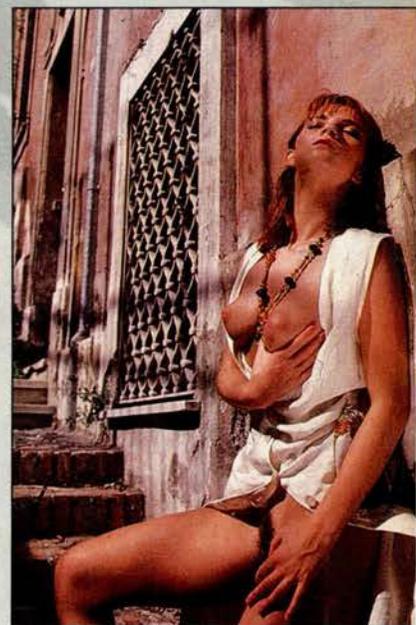

Mr. Larry C. Flynt, publisher of America's Magazine, invites the world to HUSTLER Magazine's 20th anniversary blowout in July. Keeping the party tight, wet and popping are seven of the choicest pleasure-seekers ever to grace a good time. Break open the bubbly with two bare-assed blondes banging bods top to bottom; duck into the shadows for a close encounter with a dark beauty playing cymbal-sized areolas; take a tumble with a powder-soft miss stroking tender flesh with ruby-topped fingertips; relive the decadent spirit of ancient Rome as a statuesque sweetheart hits the picturesque streets of the modern city; and make a date for the future with a space-age look at two HUSTLER girls who make it into the next century. Twenty years of pink makes a whole lot of reasons to put the icing on the cake. Join us in July to wish HUSTLER well—and swell.

SUFFER THE CHILDREN

When Stand By Me star River Phoenix died of a drug overdose on October 31, 1993, little question was raised over who might have benefited from the passing of the promising actor. However, recent investigations into child-abuse allegations against a religious cult known as the Children of God reveal that Phoenix's father was once named archbishop of the radical sect. John Phoenix and his wife, Arlyn, raised River and his brothers and sisters in keeping with the beliefs of the Children of God; and River violated the group's stricture of secrecy when he recounted publicly that, under the guidance of adult members, he had first experienced sexual intercourse at age four and continued to have sex with other children until the age of ten. Investigators believe the Children of God to be funded by influential businessmen worldwide, including some well-known, powerful people. Had he lived, River Phoenix could have proven to be a dangerous liability to high-ranking leaders of the cult, asserts writer Alex Constantine in Mountain High, River Deep, a provocative report on child-abuse allegations that won't stay buried.

LIVING LEGEND

July marks a turning point that HUSTLER readers won't want to miss. Reviewing 20 years of hope, trust and revolution, HUSTLER Associate Editor Mike McPadden sits with crusading American legend Larry Flynt to discuss the past, the present and the forces that shape America's Magazine. The luck of the draw names the winner of HUSTLER's Readers' Survey, who must choose between the prizes of a big-screen TV and a trip to Beverly Hills, California, to participate in the shooting of a HUSTLER girl set; Bits & Pieces enlists rock god Nikki Sixx of Mötley Crüe in its quest to determine what's more important, head or tail; Hot Letters continues to turn firsthand fucks into handy fist-fucks; Beaver Hunt crowns the beauties of the backyard with a Polaroid flash; and plenty of birthday wishes come from all quarters—including the strange and unforeseeable—to send the book that Larry built sailing on to 21. HUSTLER in July has its cake and eats it too. Take a bite.
